

Treasury of Illustrated Classics™

Magical scenes of Wonderland to color!

Alice in Wonderland

GIANT COLORING BOOK

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2023 with funding from
No Sponsor

<https://archive.org/details/aliceinwonderlan0000na>

Treasury of Illustrated Classics

Alice in Wonderland

GIANT COLORING BOOK

©2003, 2004, 2005 Modern Publishing, a division of Unisystems, Inc.

™Treasury of Illustrated Classics is a registered trademark of Modern Publishing, a division of Unisystems, Inc.

Published by Modern Publishing, a division of Unisystems, Inc.

©Honey Bear Books is a trademark owned by Honey Bear Productions, Inc., and is registered in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. No part of this book may be reproduced or copied in any form without written permission from the publisher. All Rights Reserved.

Modern Publishing
A Division of Unisystems, Inc.
New York, New York 10022

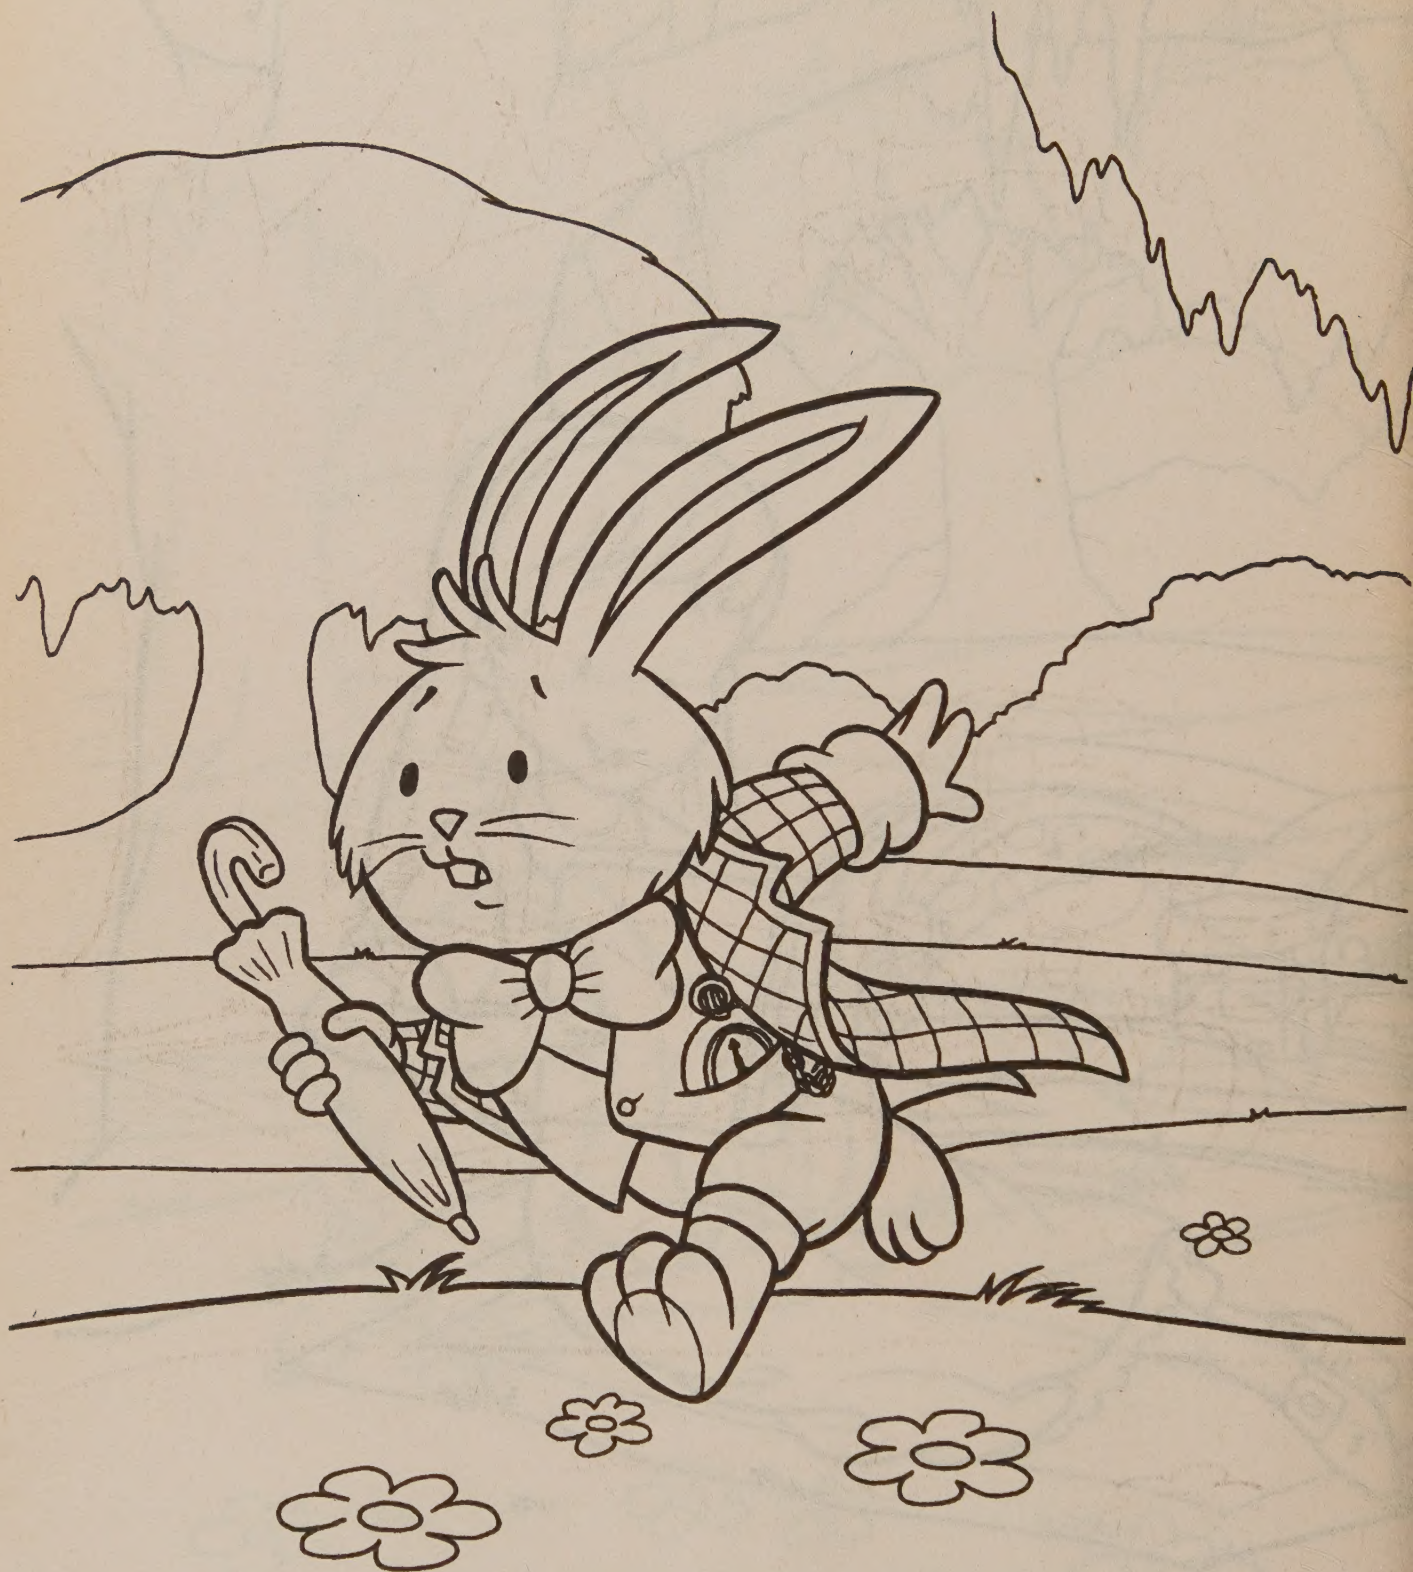

Printed in the U.S.A.
Series UPC: 49330

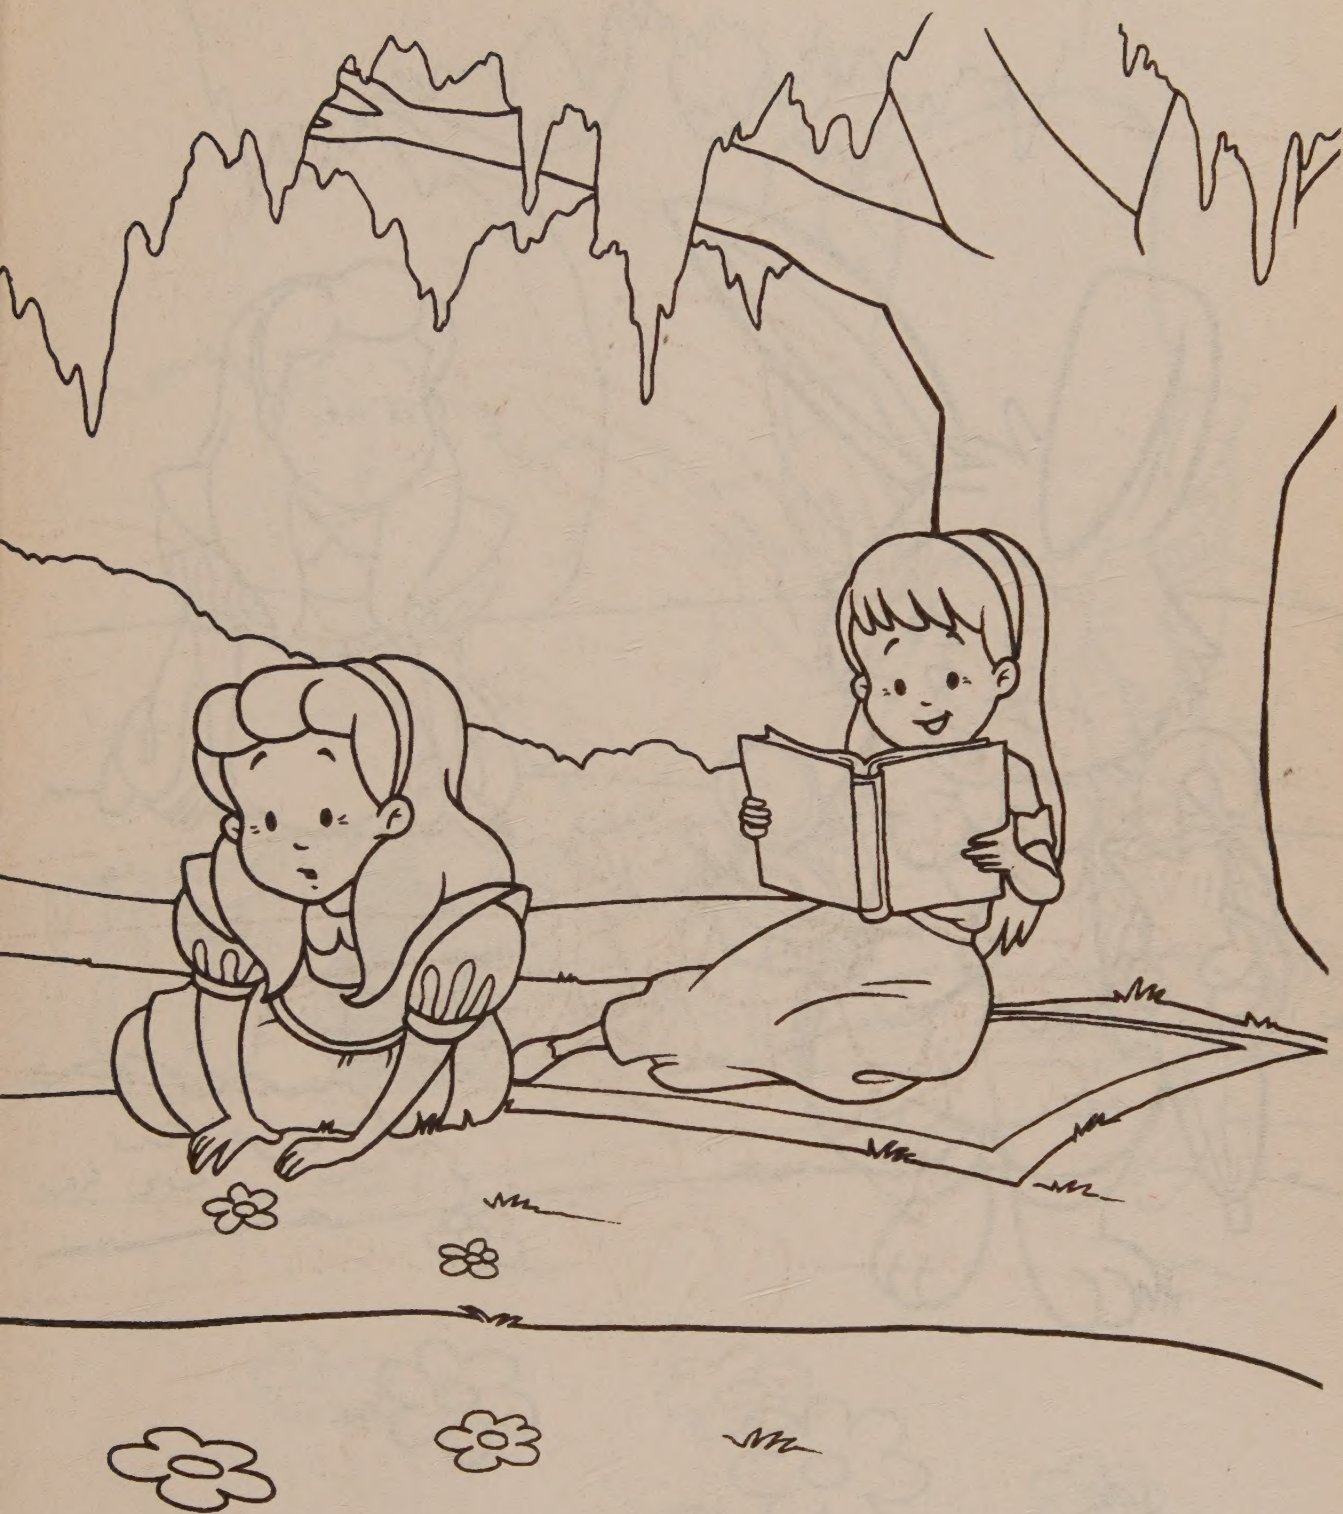

One lazy afternoon, Alice and her sister went to the riverbank.

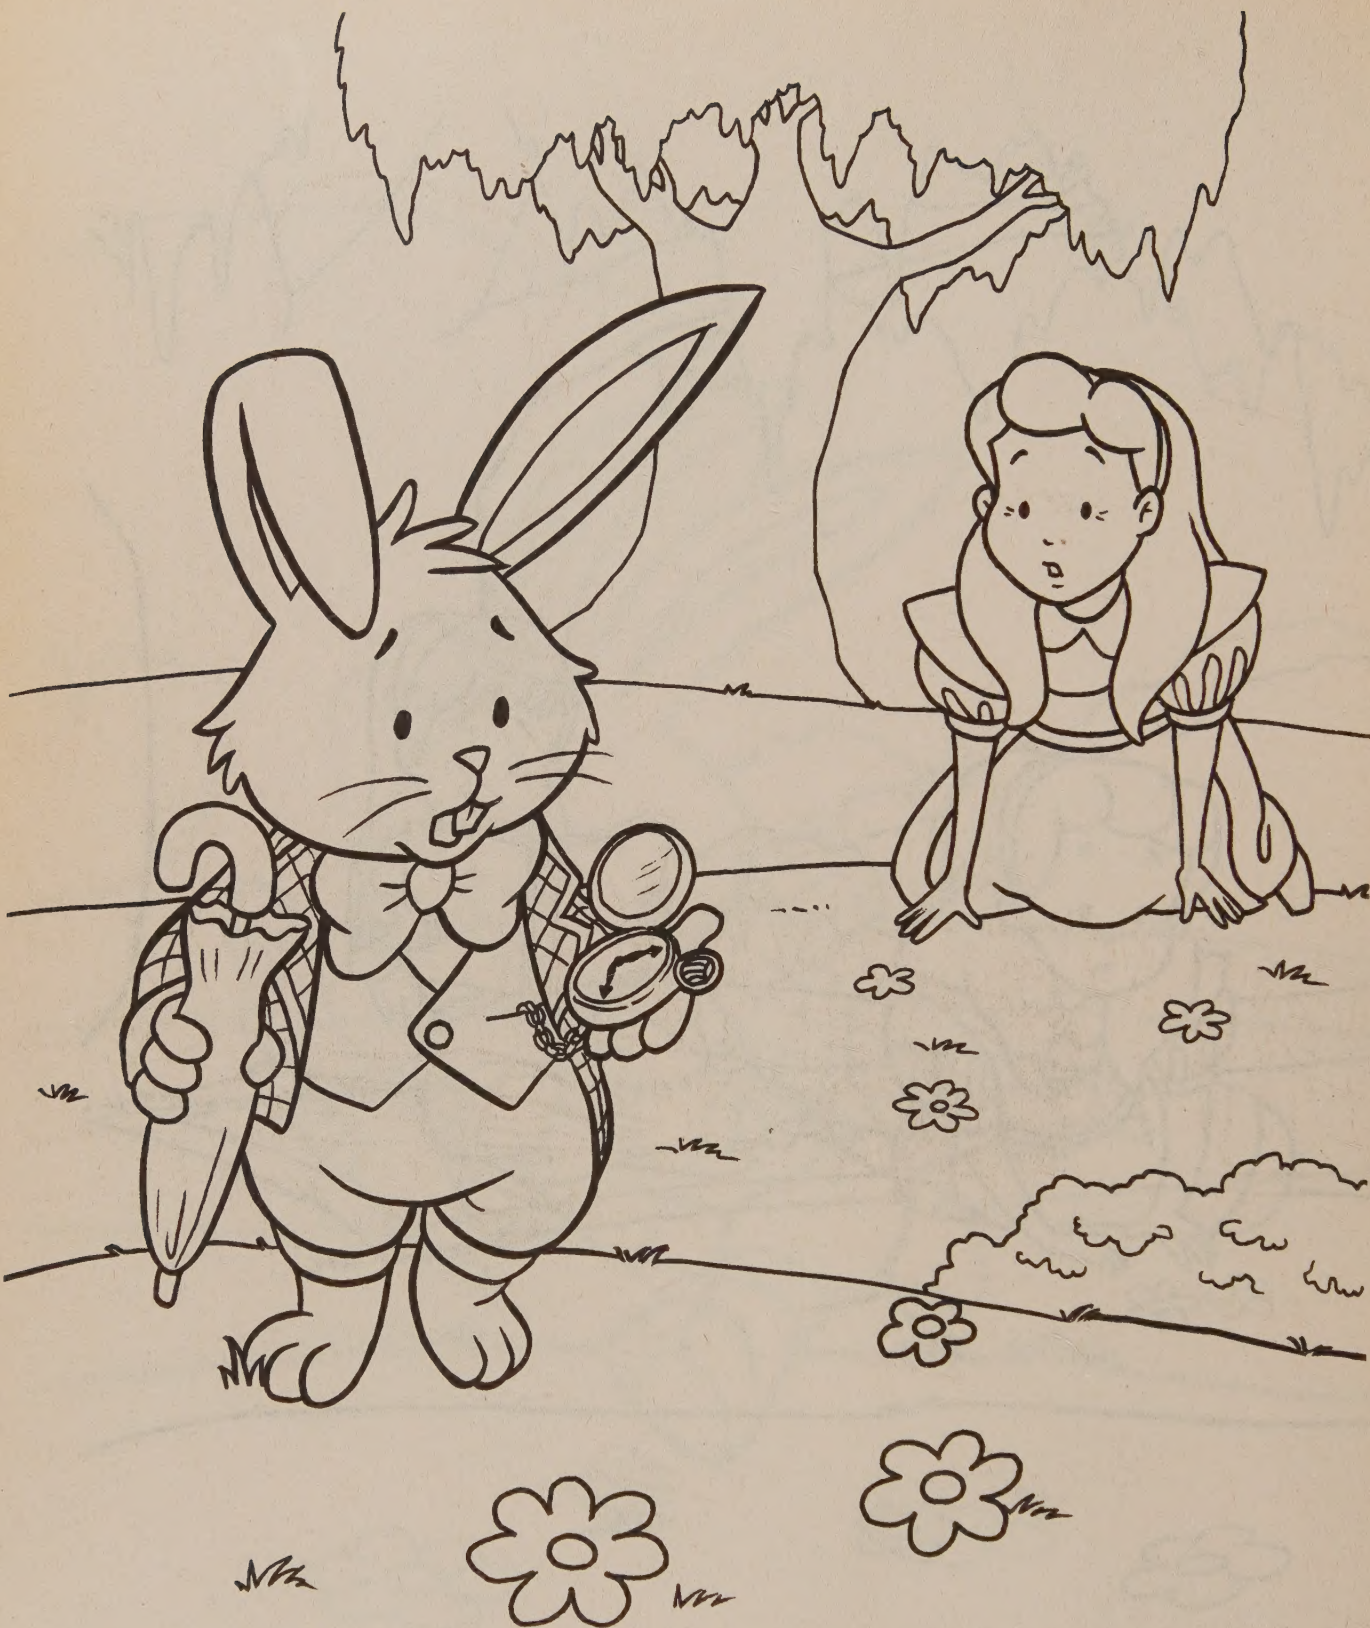

Her sister was reading a boring book with no pictures at all!
Alice wanted to go on an adventure.

A White Rabbit ran by.

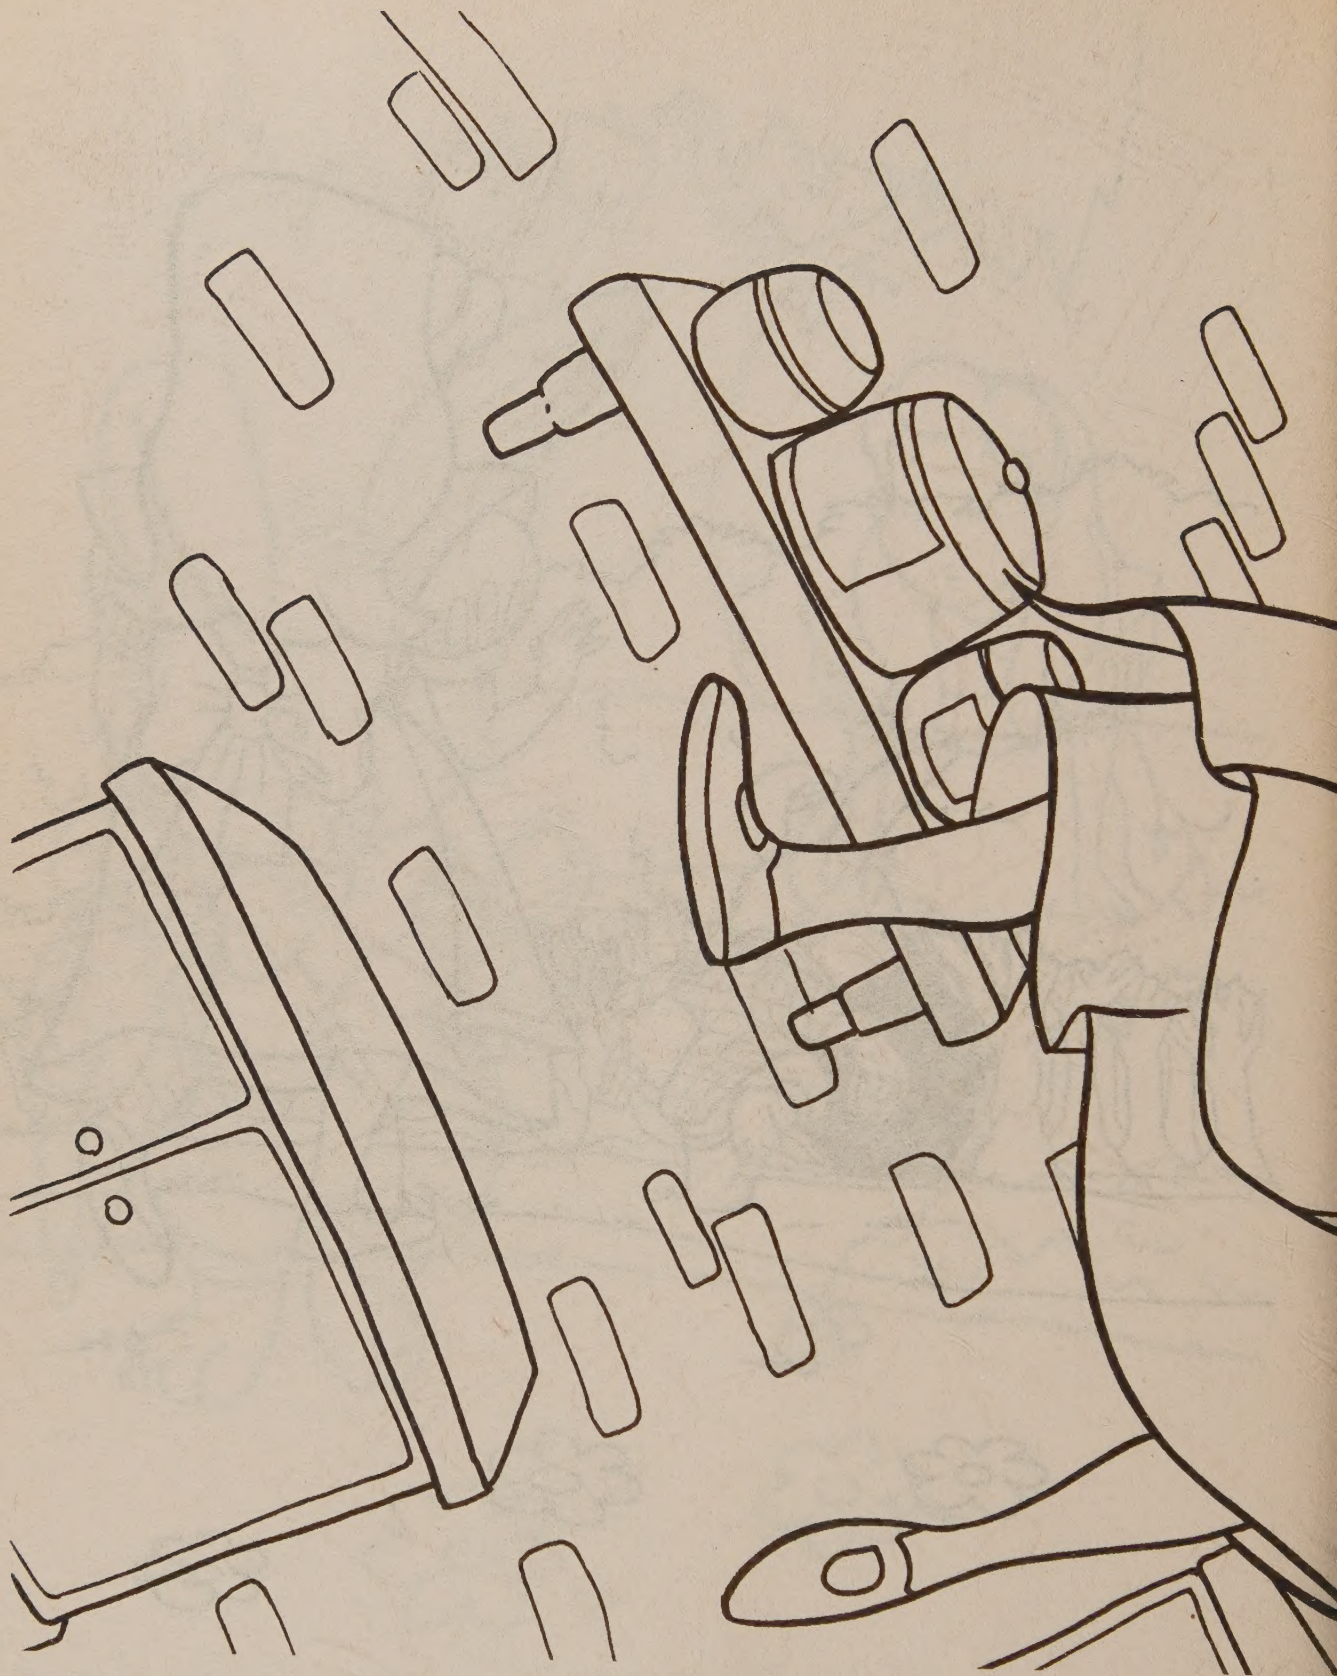

Alice was surprised to see the rabbit wearing a vest and pocket watch!

"Oh, dear. Oh, dear. I will be late!" the rabbit said. He ran to a rabbit hole under a hedge and disappeared.

Alice popped down the hole after the rabbit.

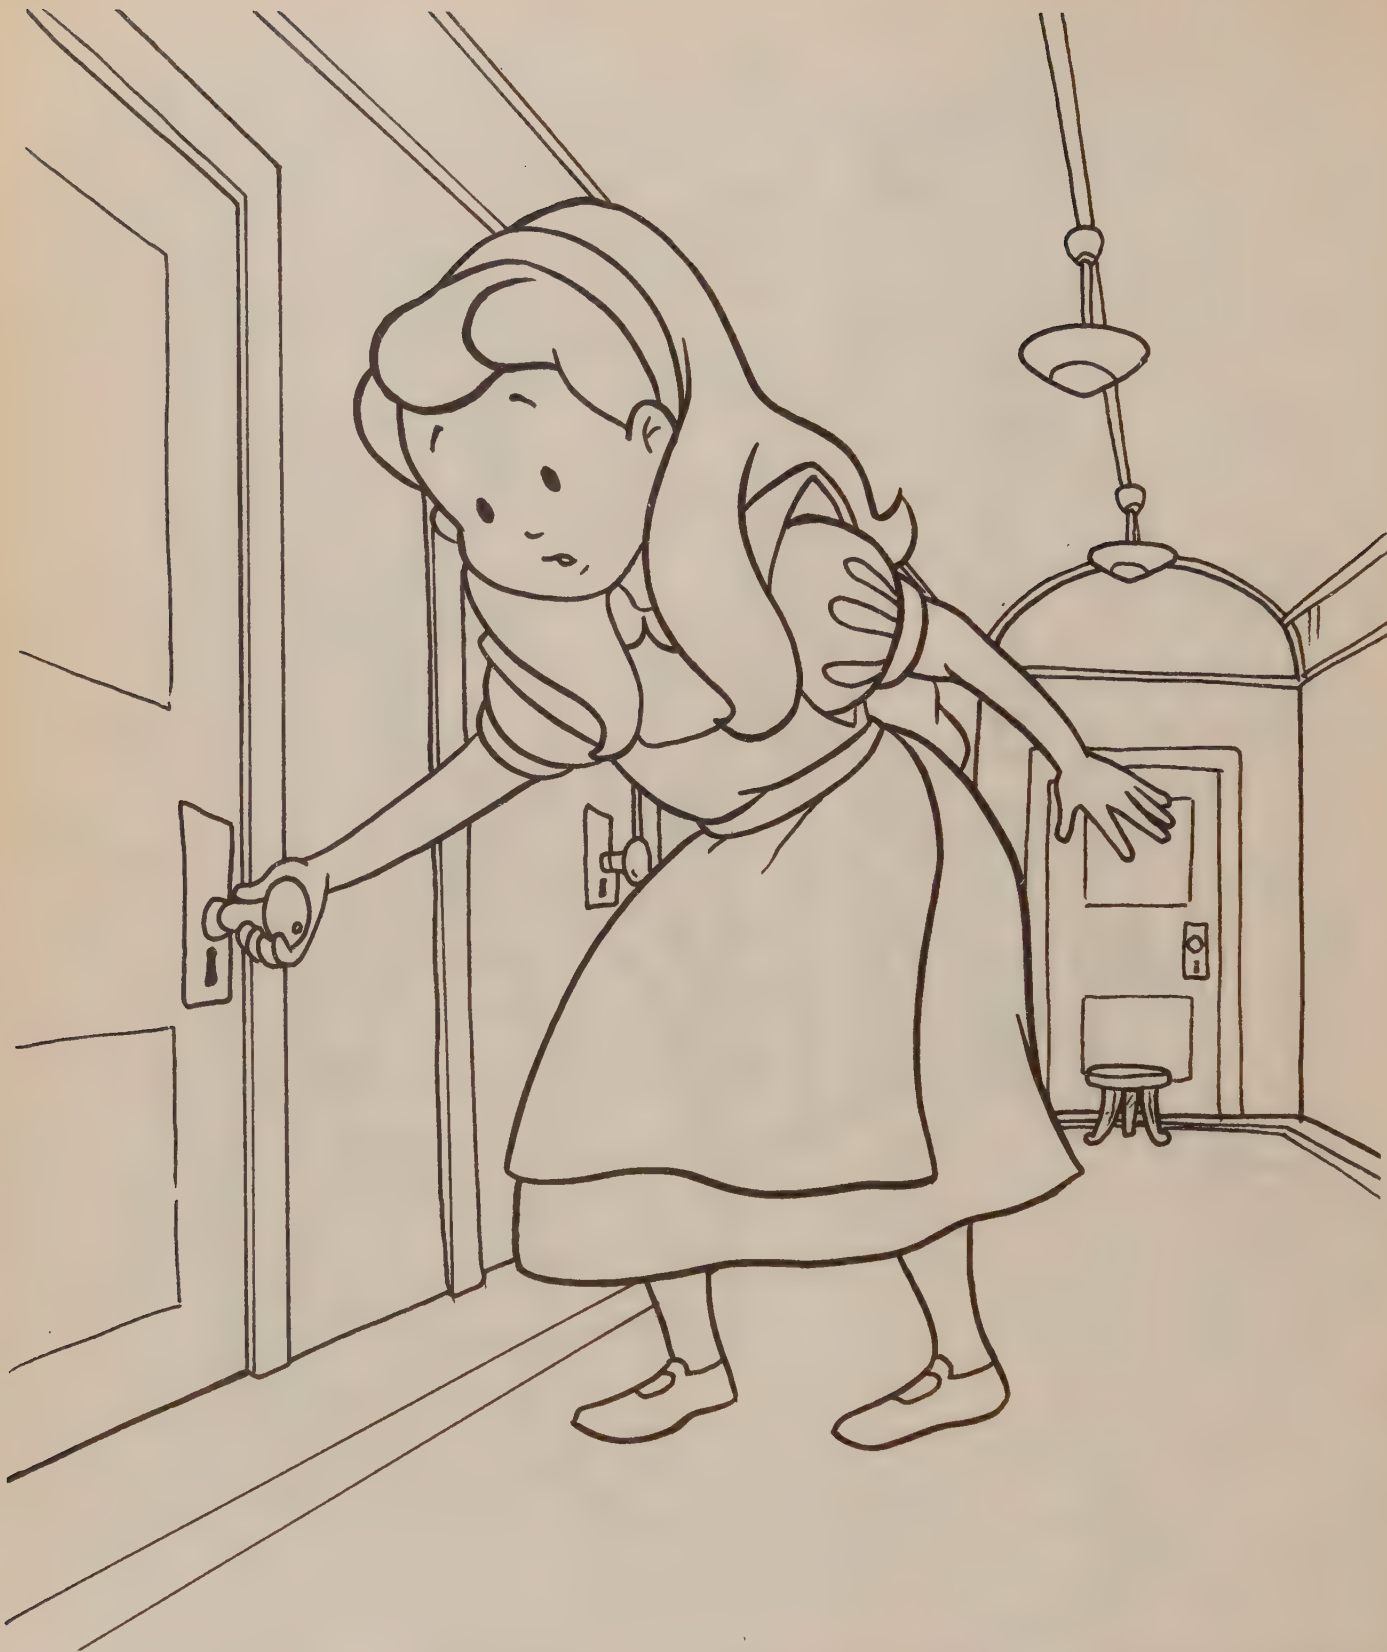

Down, down, down she went. She fell for a very long time.

She landed safely in a pile of leaves.

Alice jumped up to follow the rabbit. He went down a hallway with many doors, turned a corner, and disappeared again.

Alice tried the doorknobs, but all of the doors were locked.

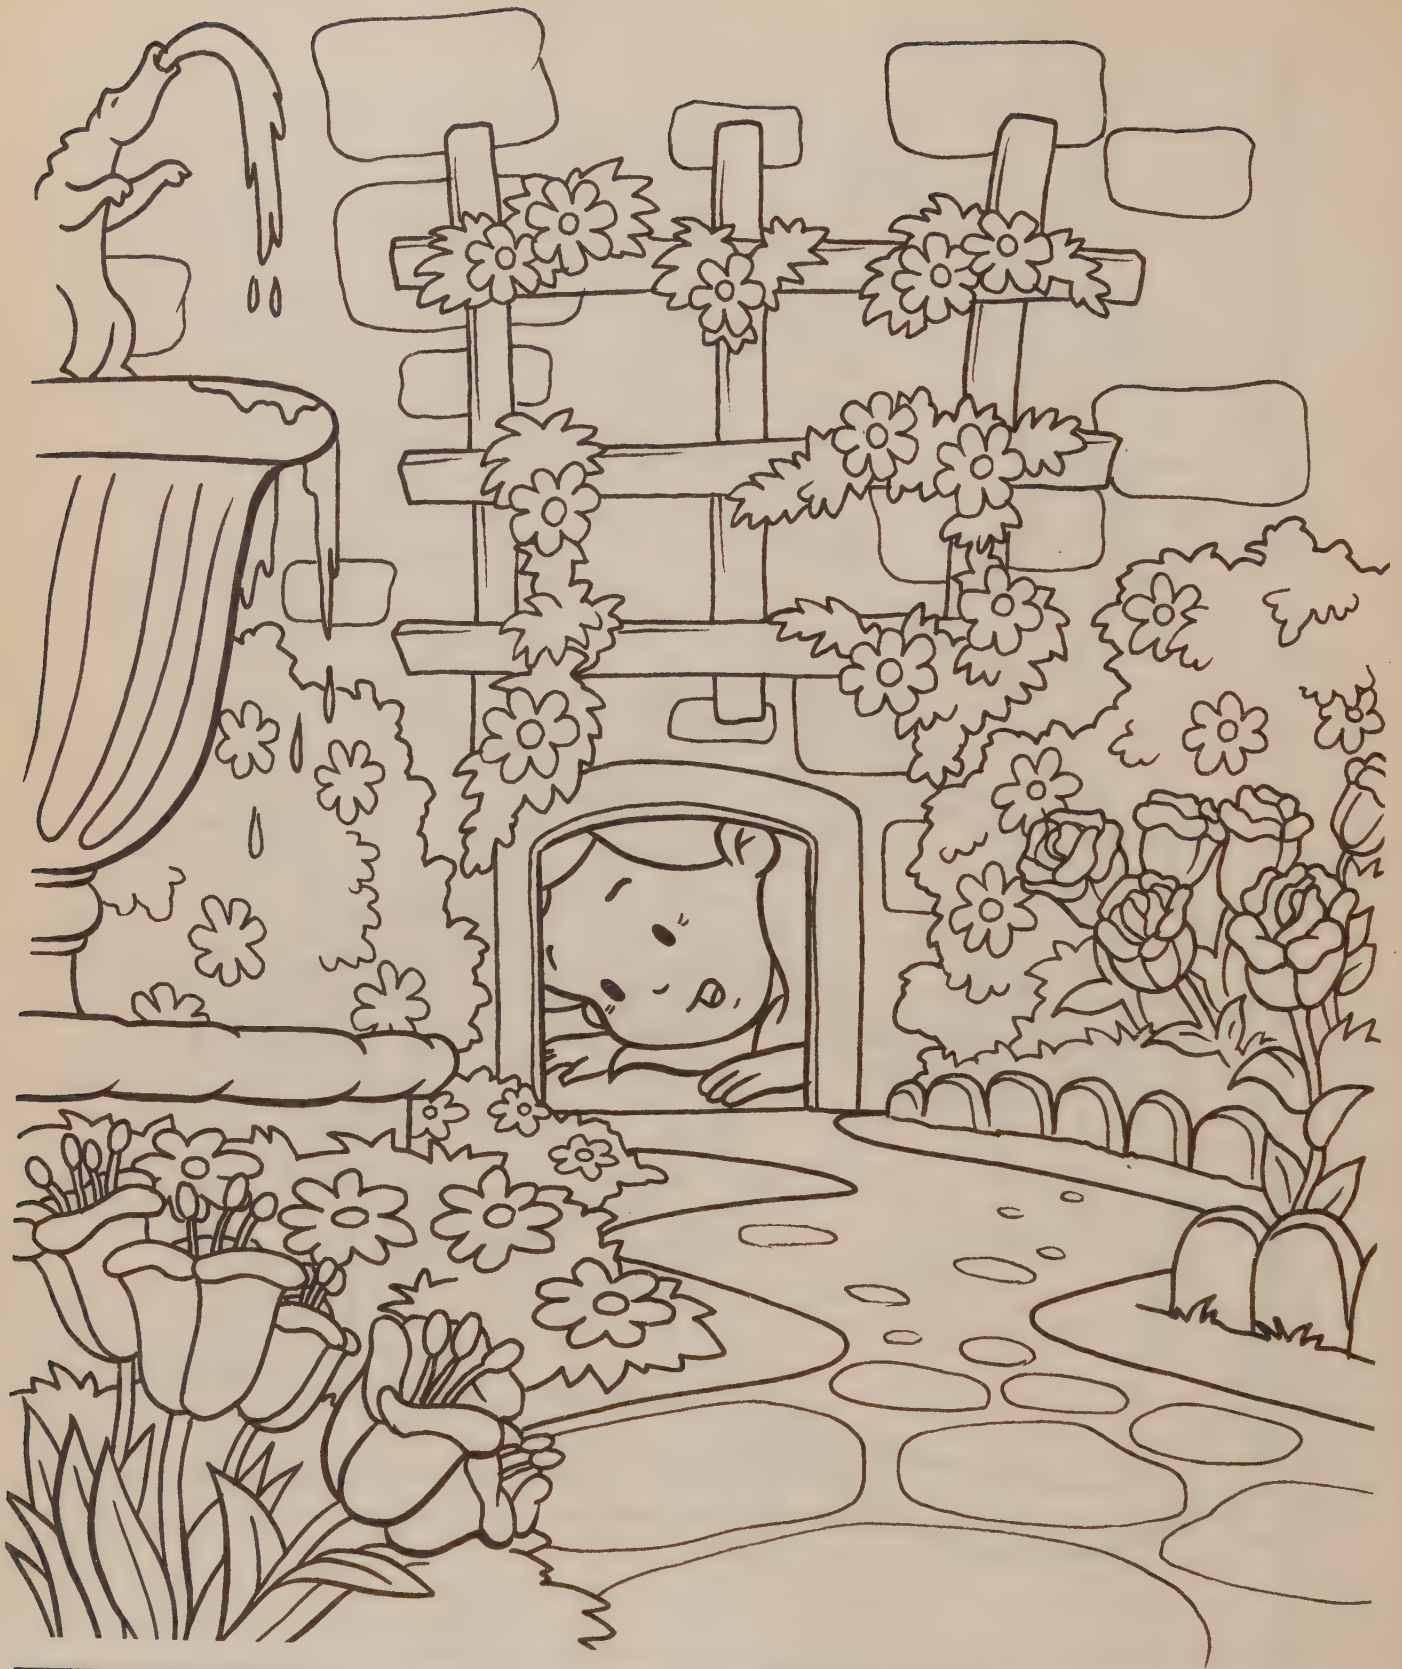

Alice walked up and down the hallway. She found a gold key on a glass table.

The key was too small to open any of the locks.

Behind a curtain, Alice found a very small door. The key fit!

Alice saw a beautiful garden, but she was too big to get through the door!

Alice walked back to the table. This time, she found a bottle labeled, "DRINK ME."

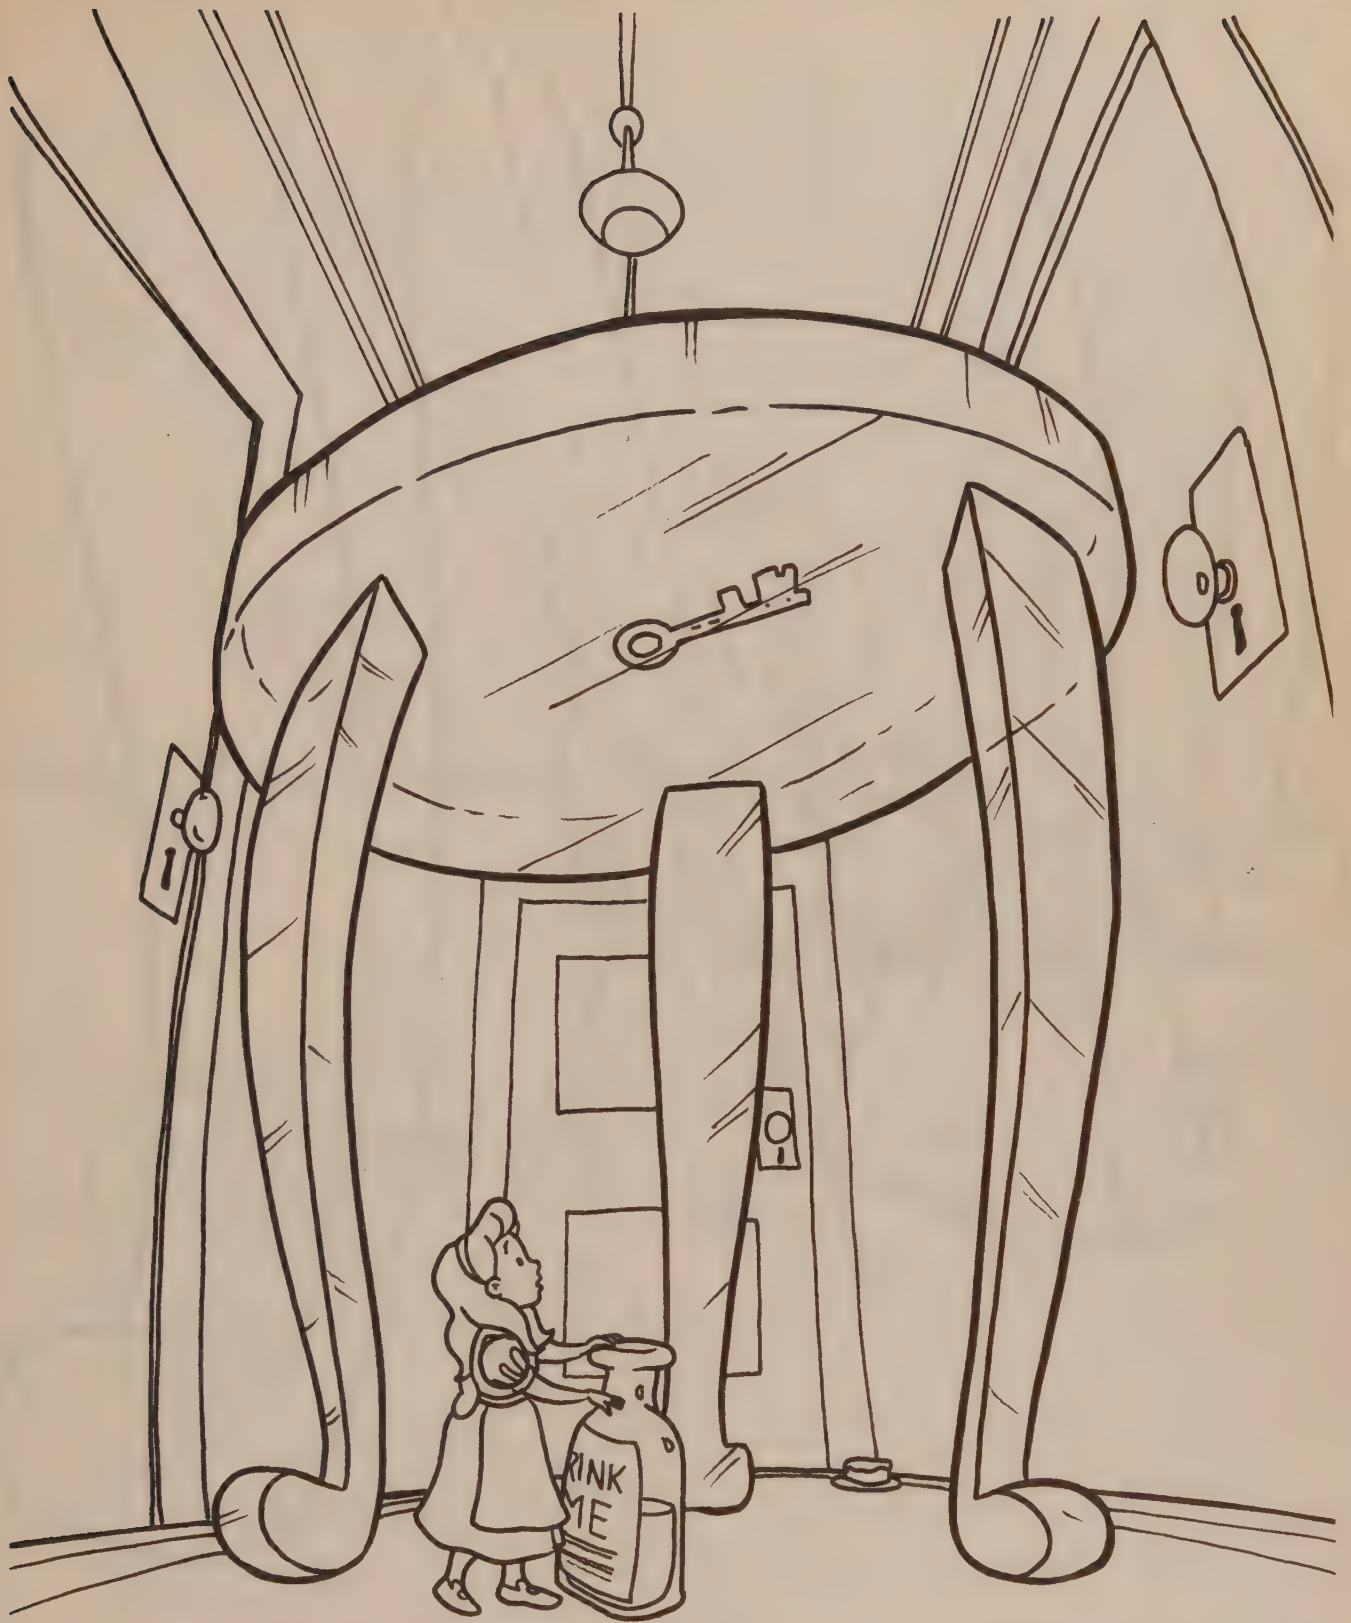

Of course, Alice checked first to make sure the drink was not poison.

When she drank some of the liquid in the bottle, Alice started to shrink...

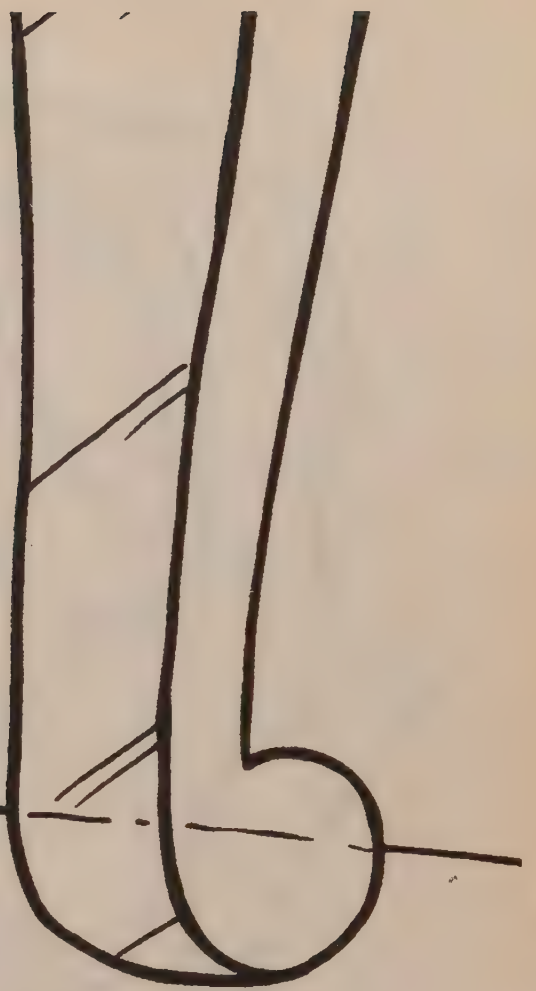

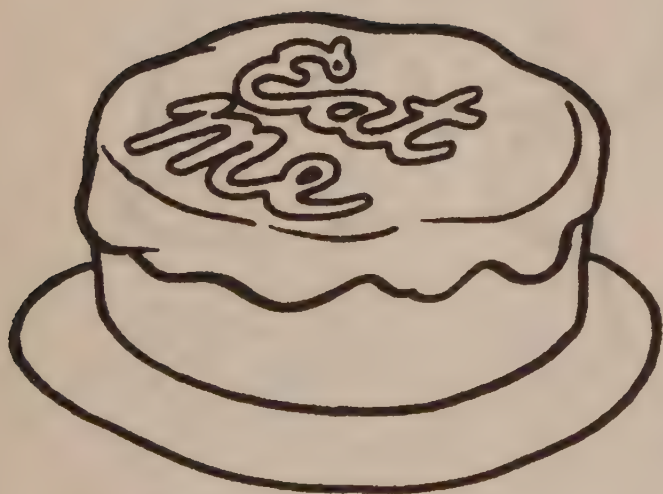

... and shrink, and shrink and shrink!

“Oh, no!” Alice cried. “I left the gold key on the table!”

Under the table, she found a little cake that had "EAT ME" written in frosting on the top.

Alice thought, "I can't get any smaller, so perhaps this will make me larger!"

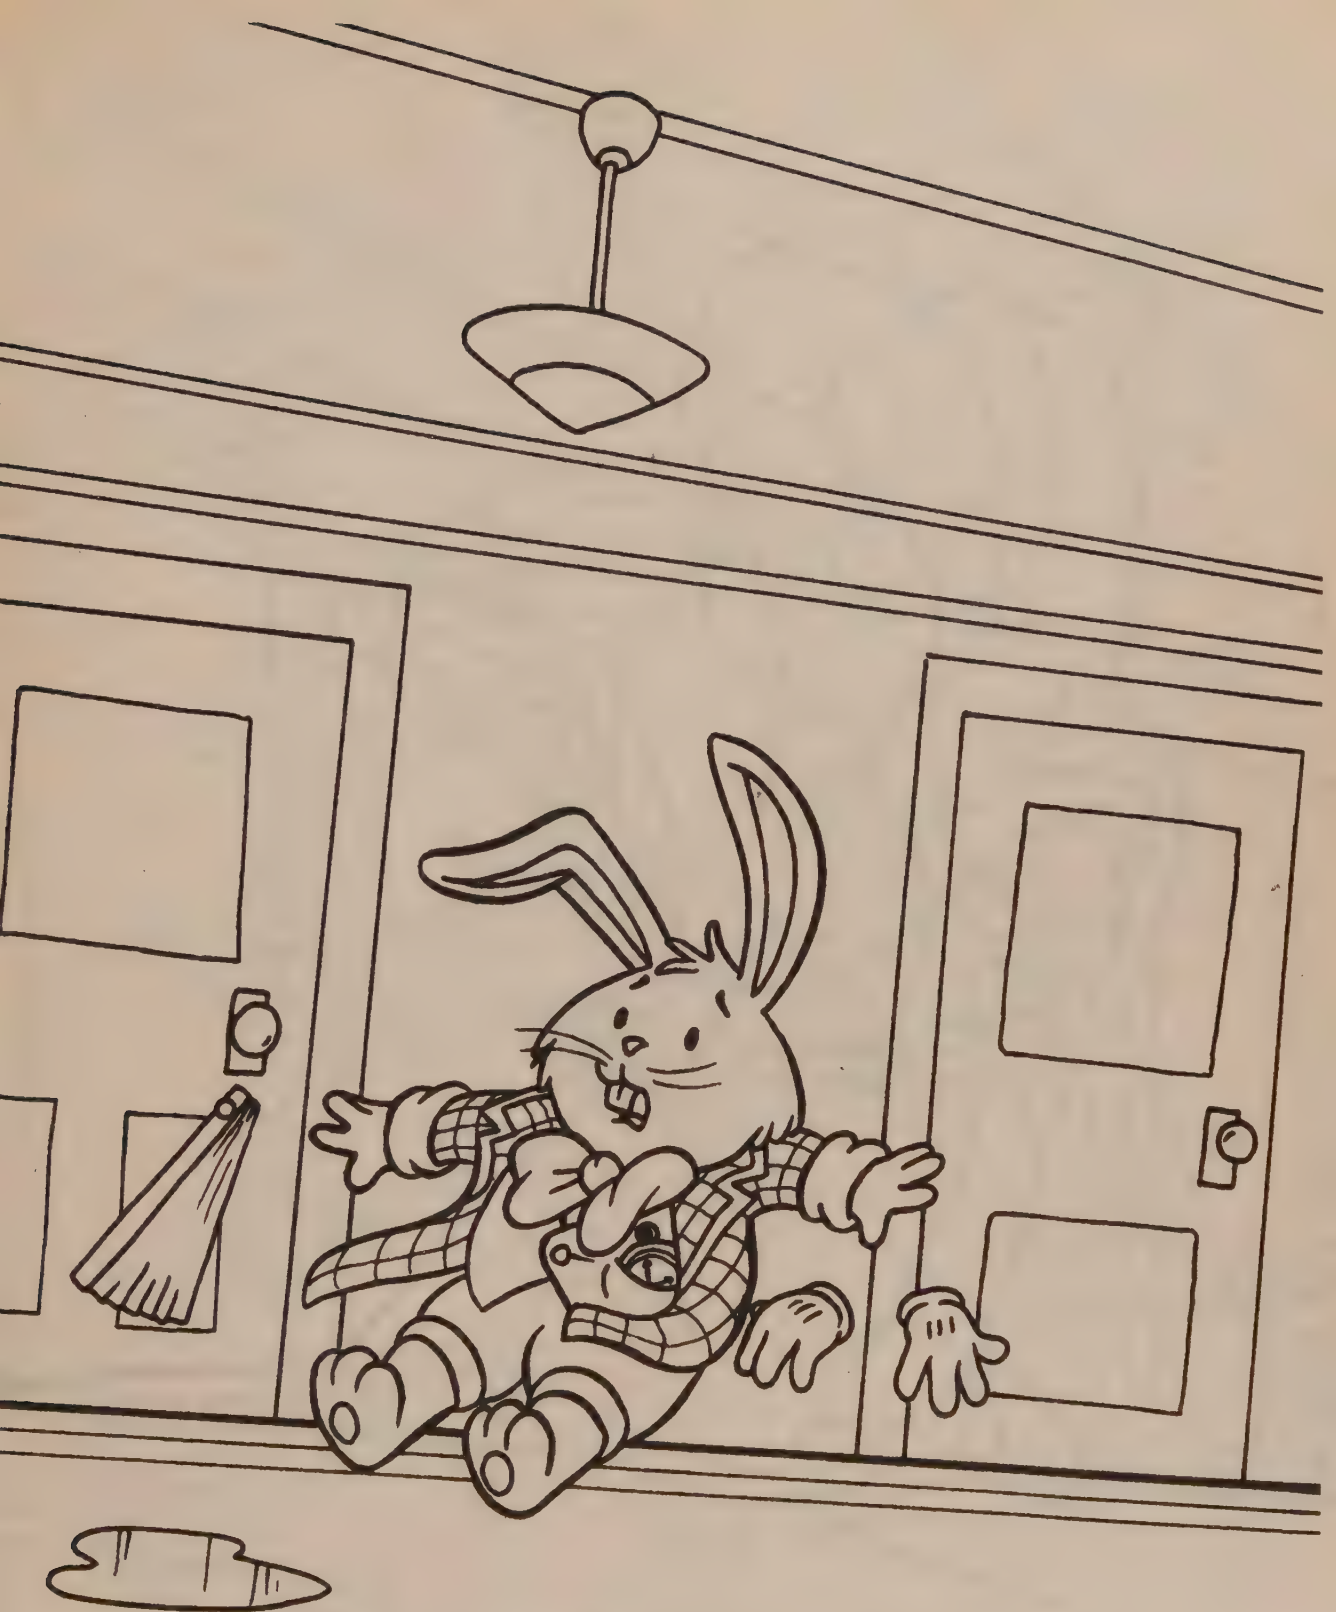

Now Alice was enormous!

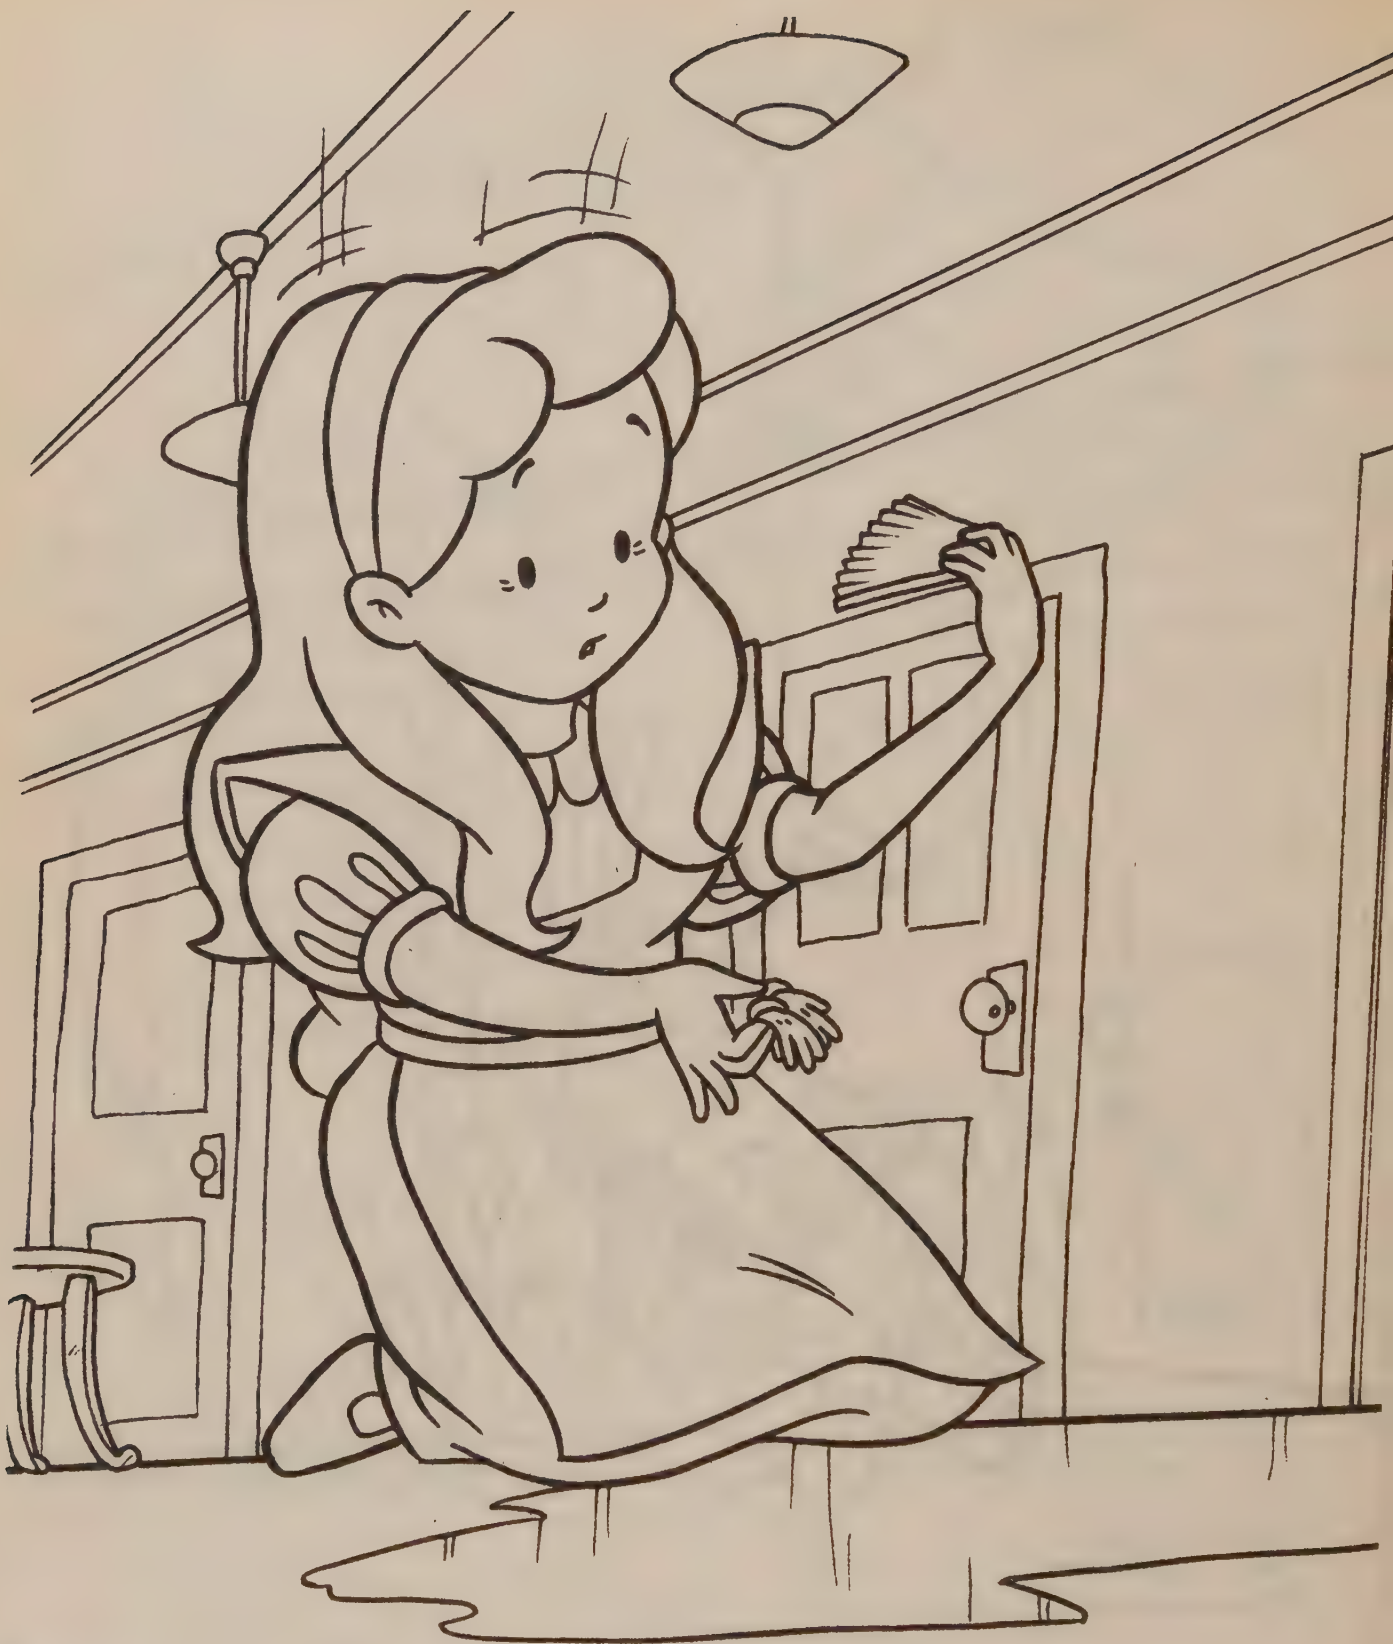

She was so sad that she cried and cried.

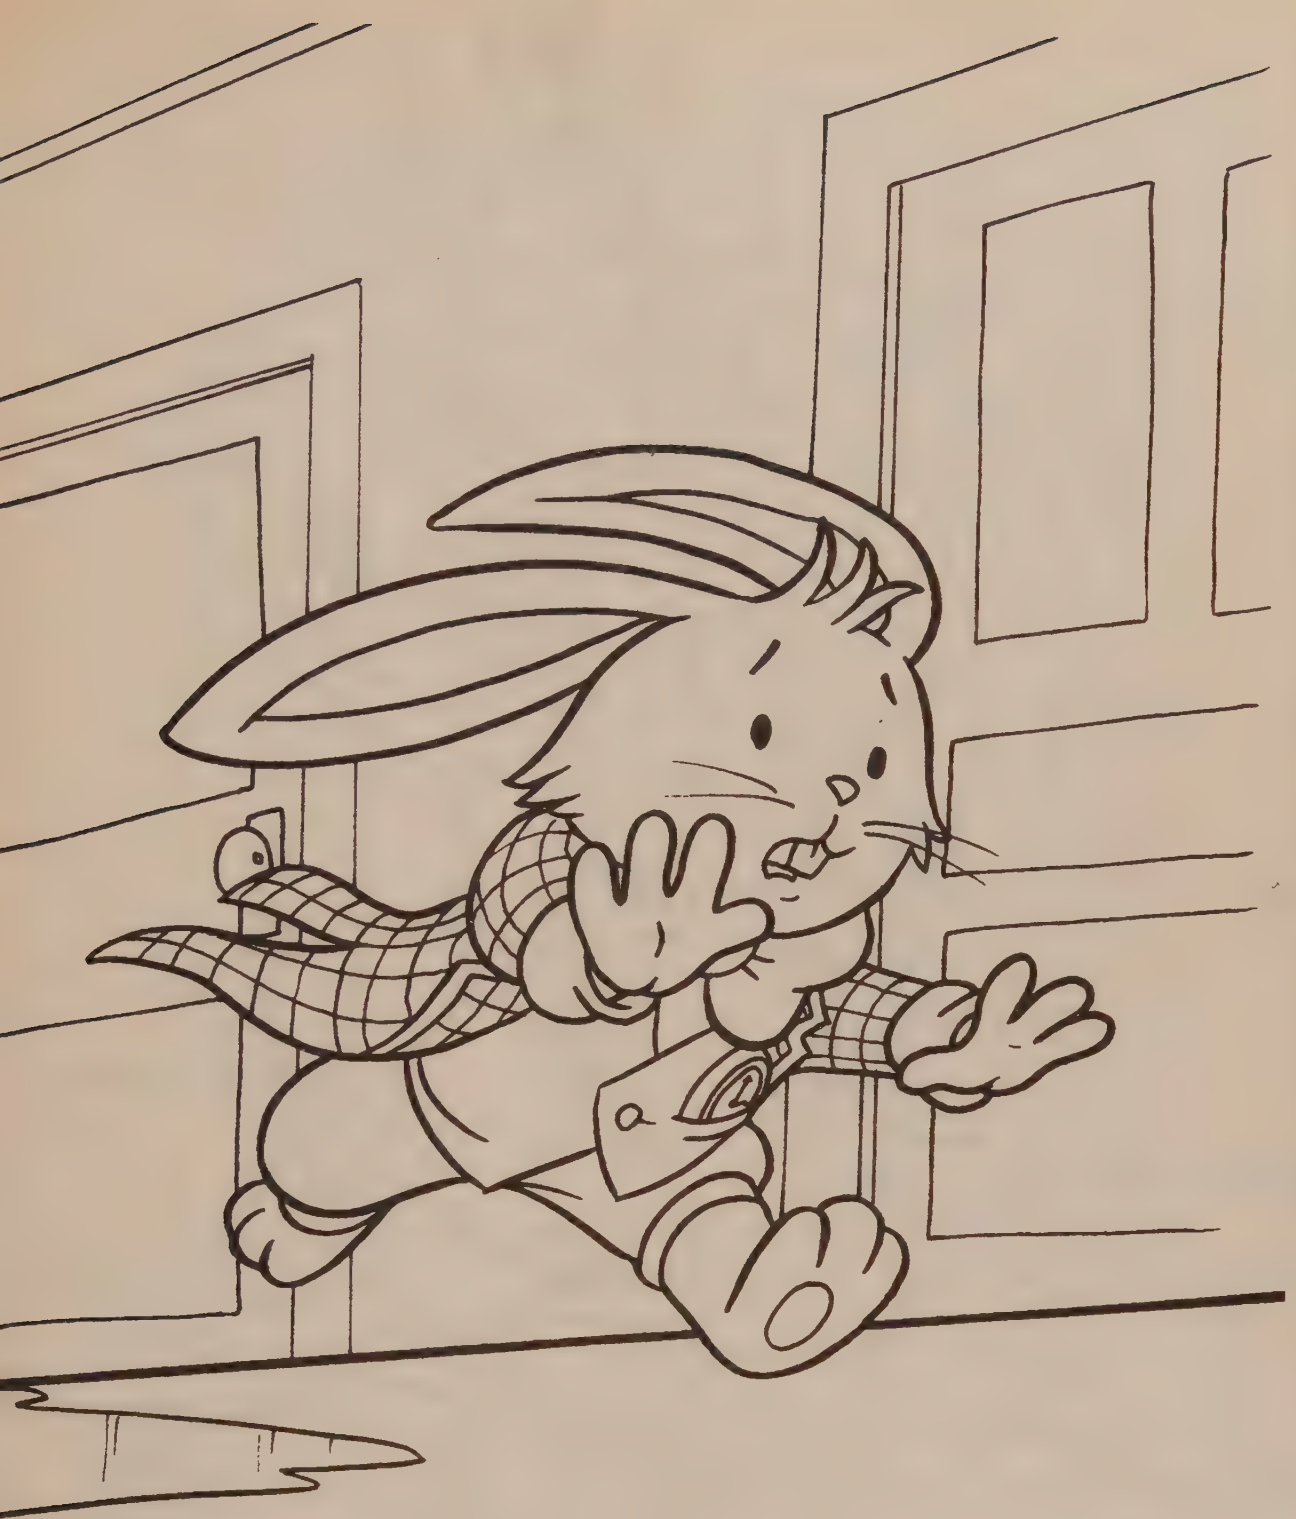

The rabbit came running by. He had a pair of gloves and a fan.

Alice was so big that the rabbit was scared. He dropped the gloves and fan as he ran away!

Alice picked up the gloves and the fan.

She fanned herself and started to shrink again...

smaller, and smaller, and even smaller!

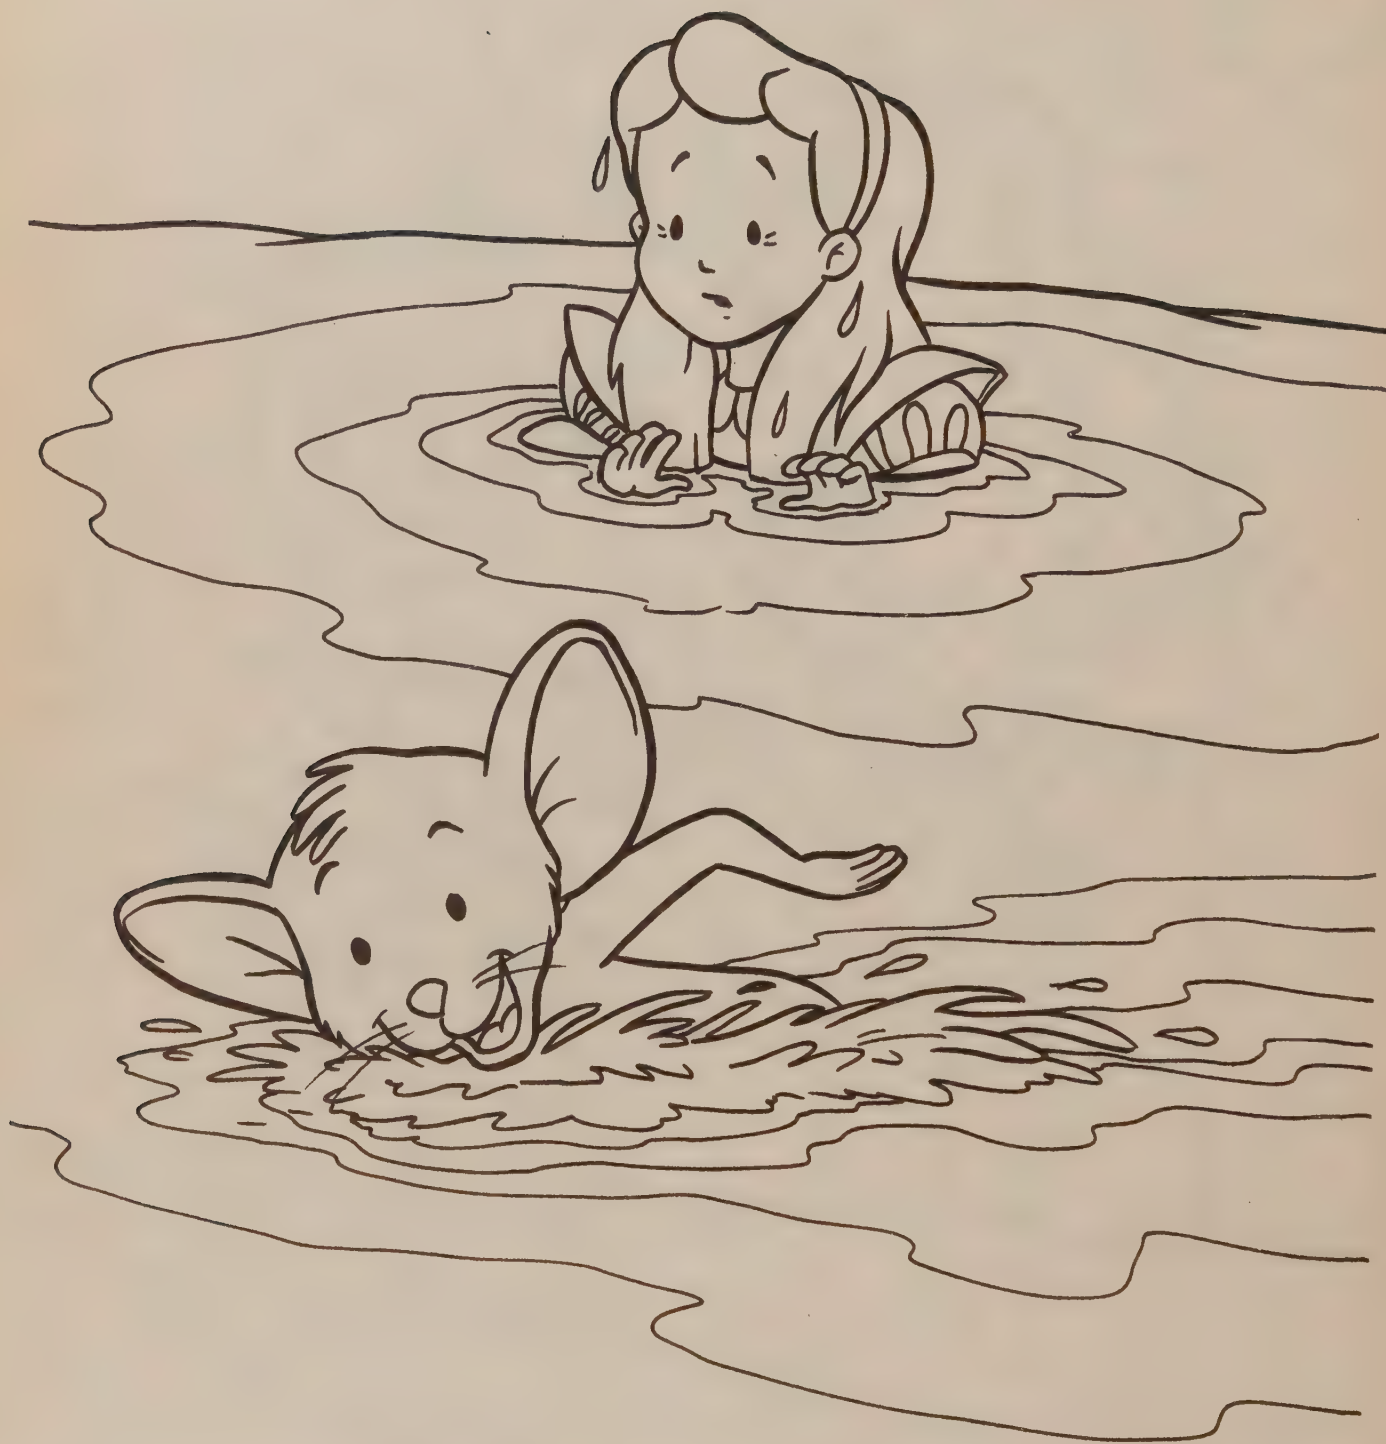

Alice went back to the table. She stopped fanning herself and stopped shrinking!

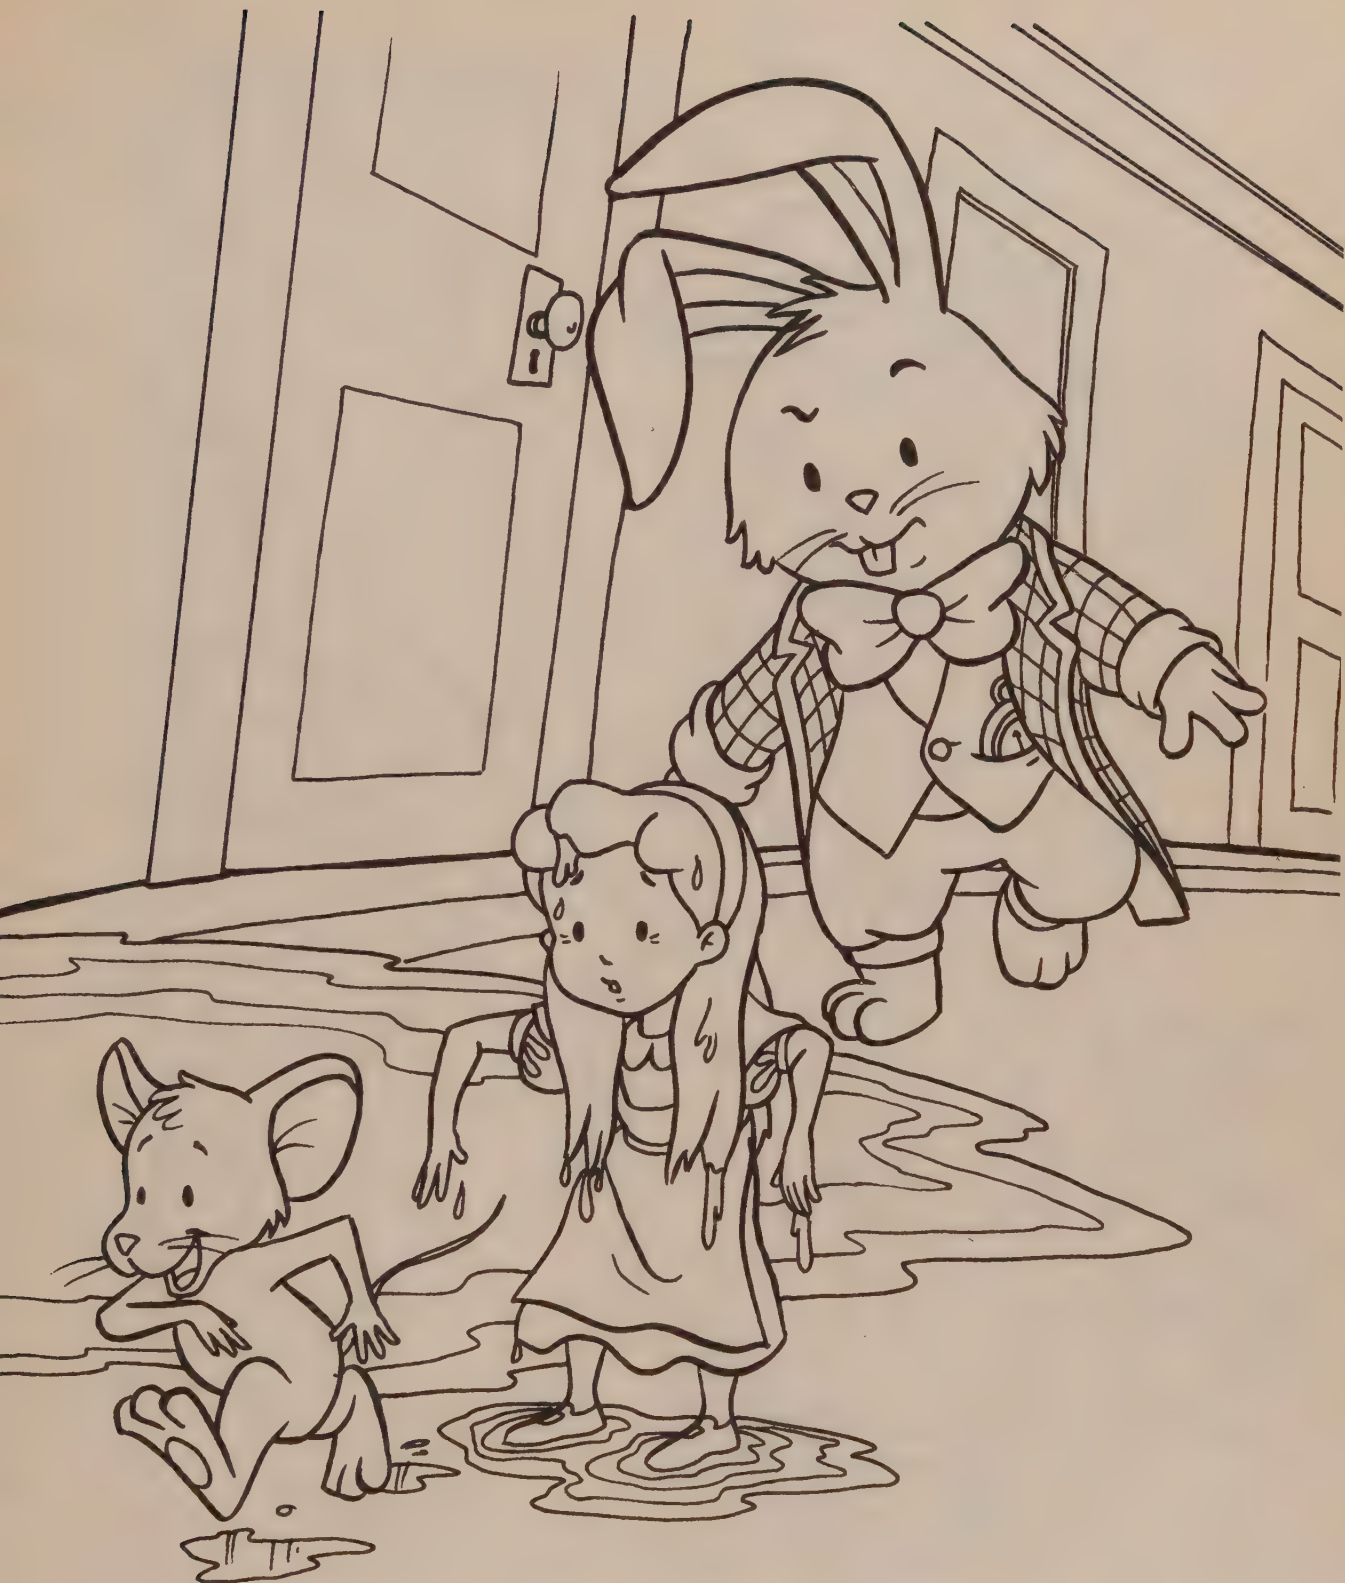

Alice went back to the garden door. The door was shut again.
"Things are worse than ever," she said.

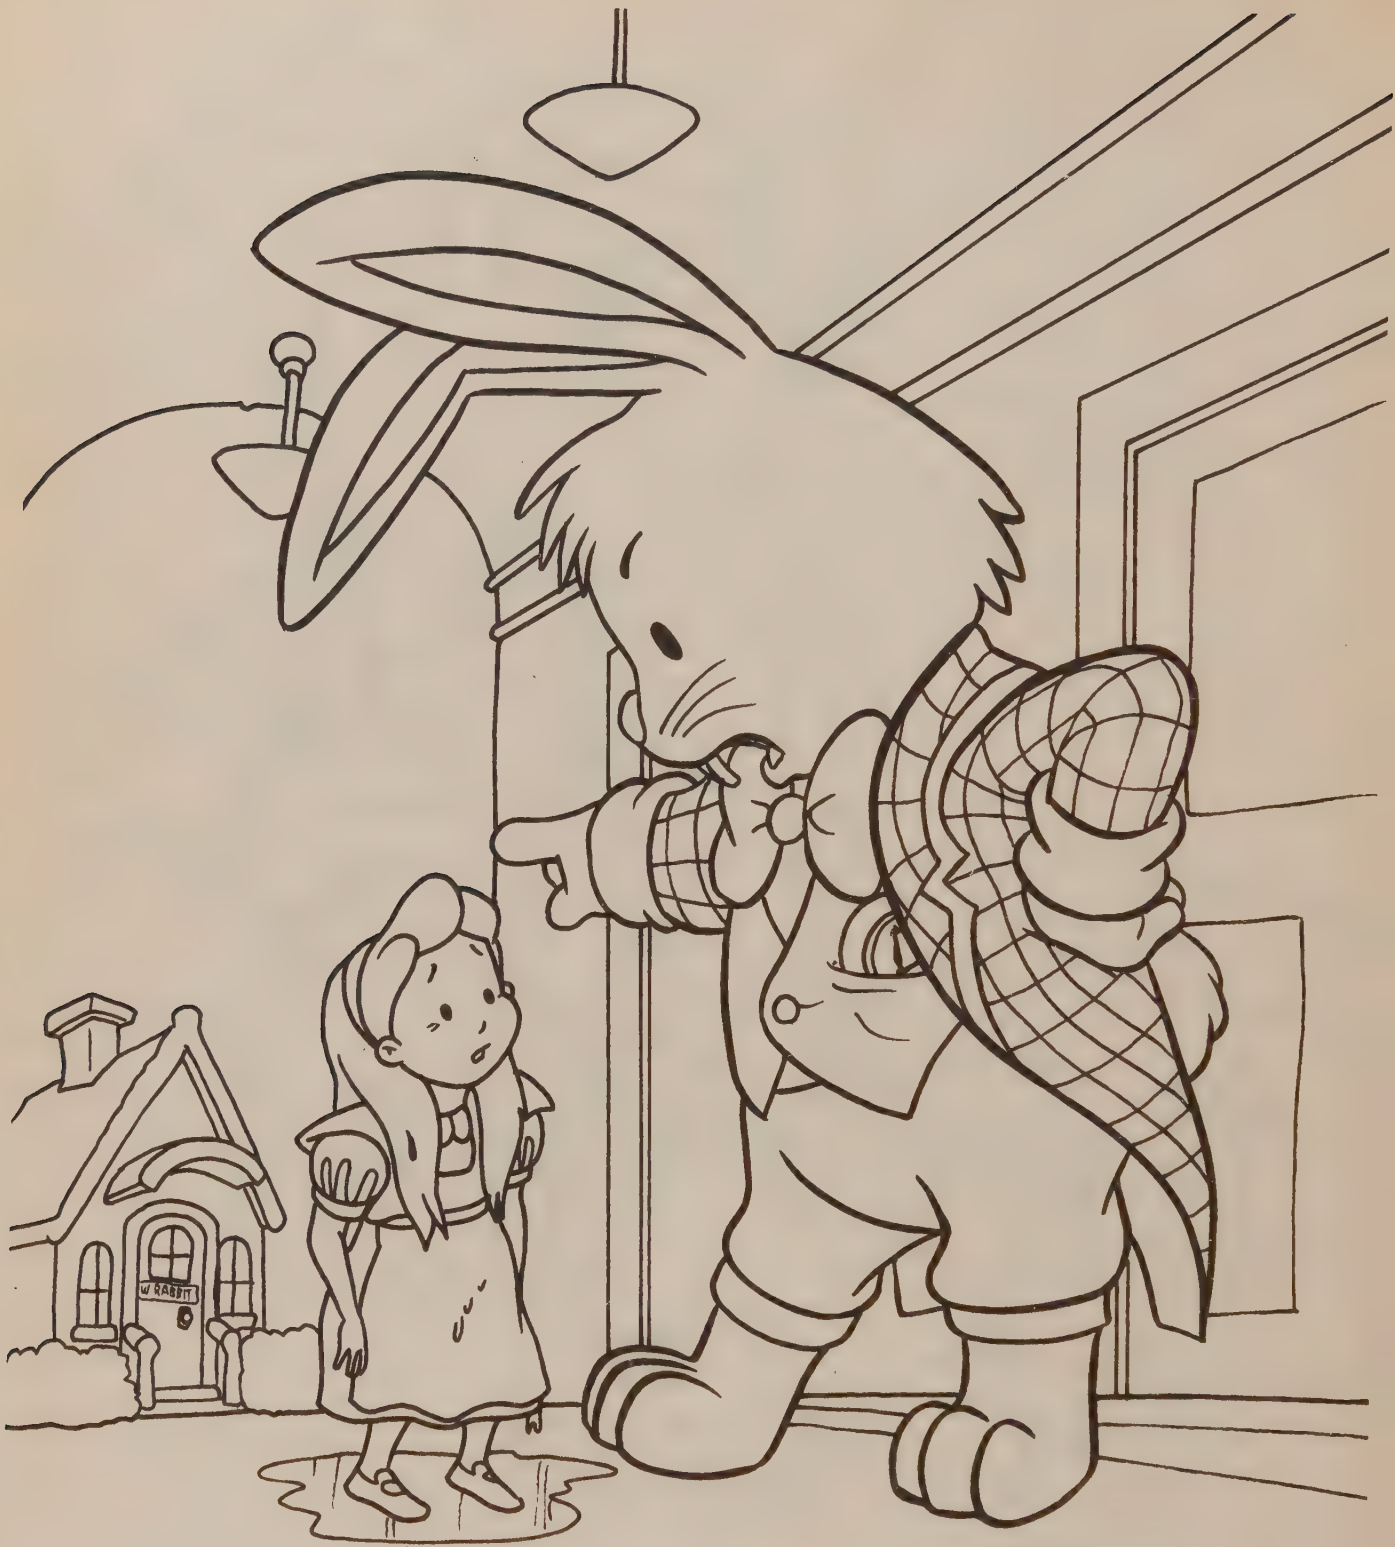

Alice slipped and fell into a pool of water. It was made of her own tears.

A mouse paddled by. Alice swam with the mouse to the shore.

The mouse ran away when they reached the shore, but the rabbit was back!

"Run off and fetch my gloves and fan," the rabbit ordered.

The gloves and fan were on a table, near another bottle.
Alice drank from the bottle.

Something strange happened. She filled the whole house!

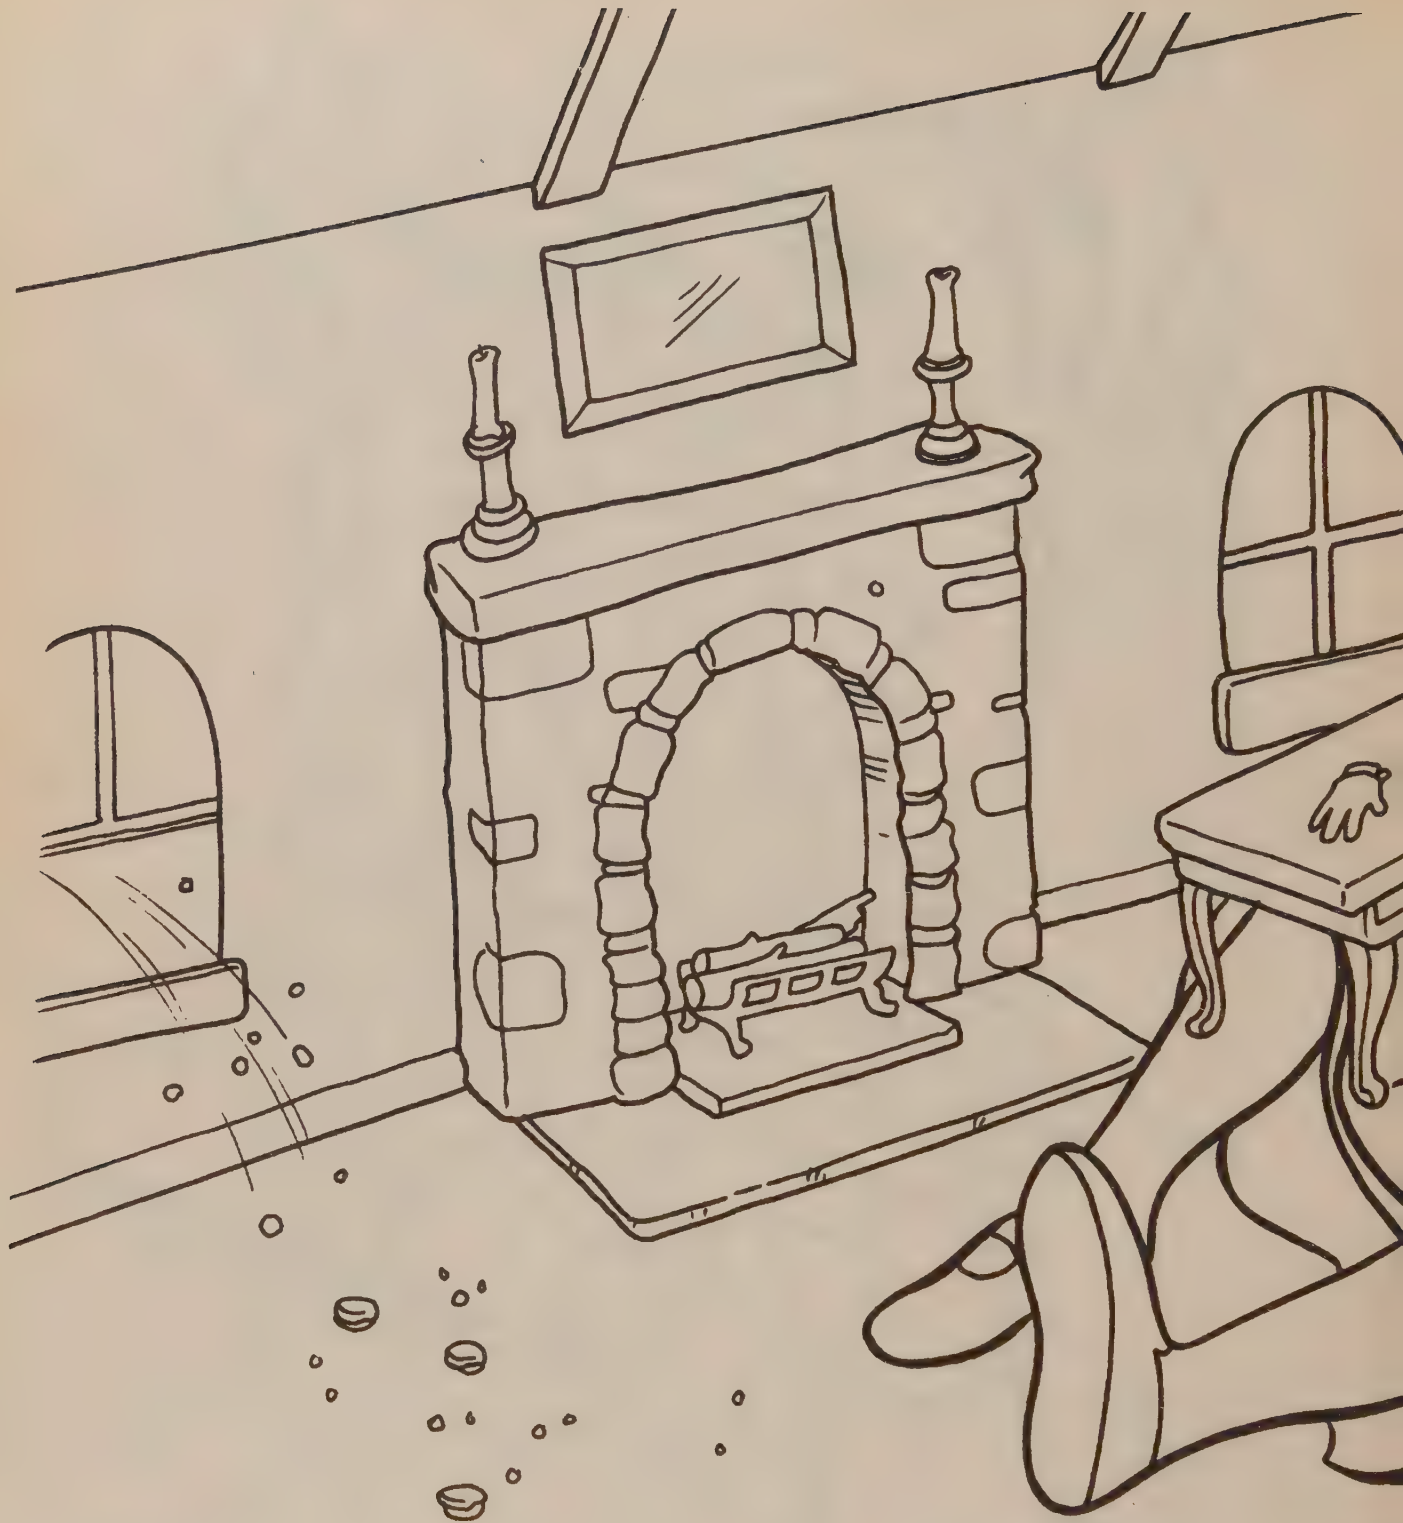

"It was much more pleasant at home," she thought.

The rabbit came to the door, but he could not open it.
Alice was blocking it. He ran to get help.

Bill the Lizard went down the chimney. Alice gave a sharp kick up the chimney, and up went Bill.

The next thing Alice knew, a shower of pebbles came through the window.

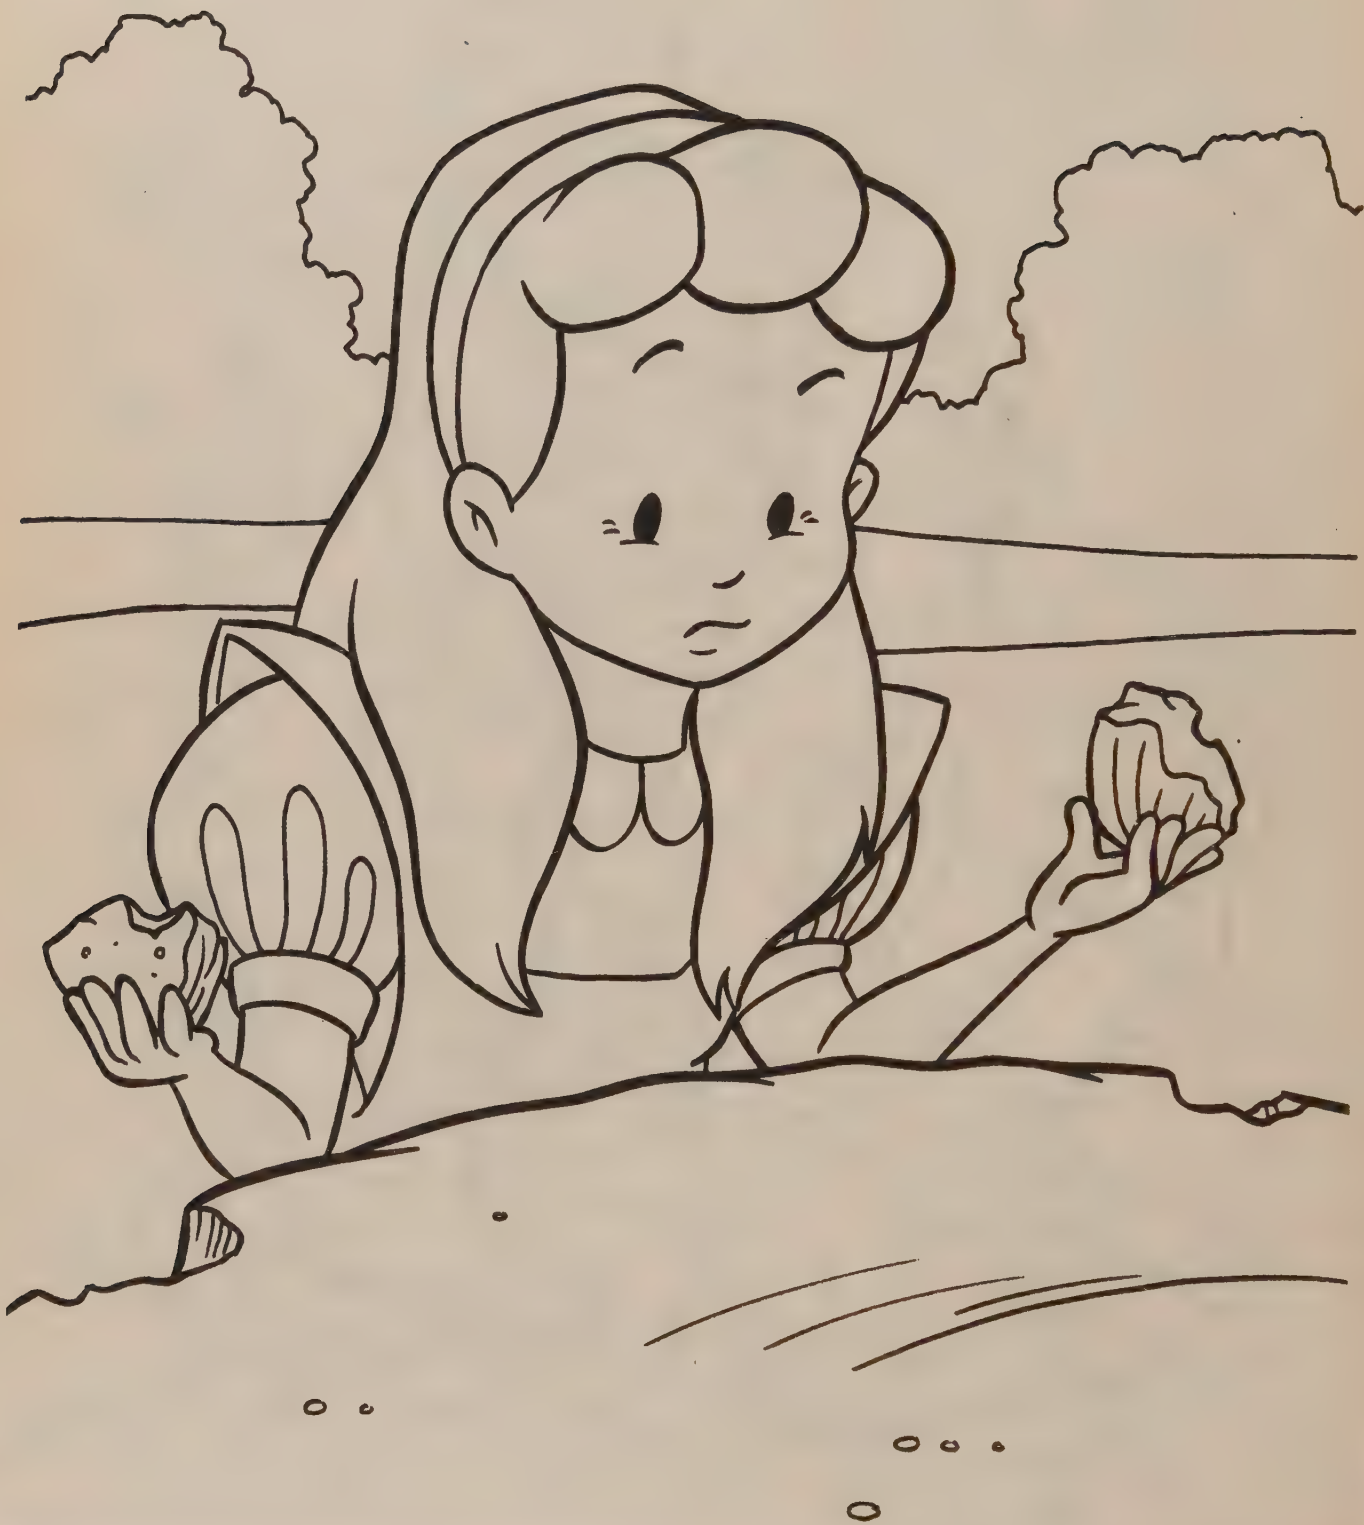

The pebbles turned into cakes. Alice ate some and shrank again.

Now Alice could fit through the door! She ran into the woods and met a caterpillar.

“One side of the mushroom will make you smaller. The other will make you larger,” the caterpillar said.

Alice took both pieces of the mushroom, but she was tired of growing and shrinking.

Back in the woods, she met two footmen. They took her to the Duchess.

The Duchess was in the kitchen with the Cook and the Baby.

The Cheshire Cat was in the corner, grinning.

“You hold the Baby,” the Duchess said to Alice. “I must prepare for a croquet match with the Queen.”

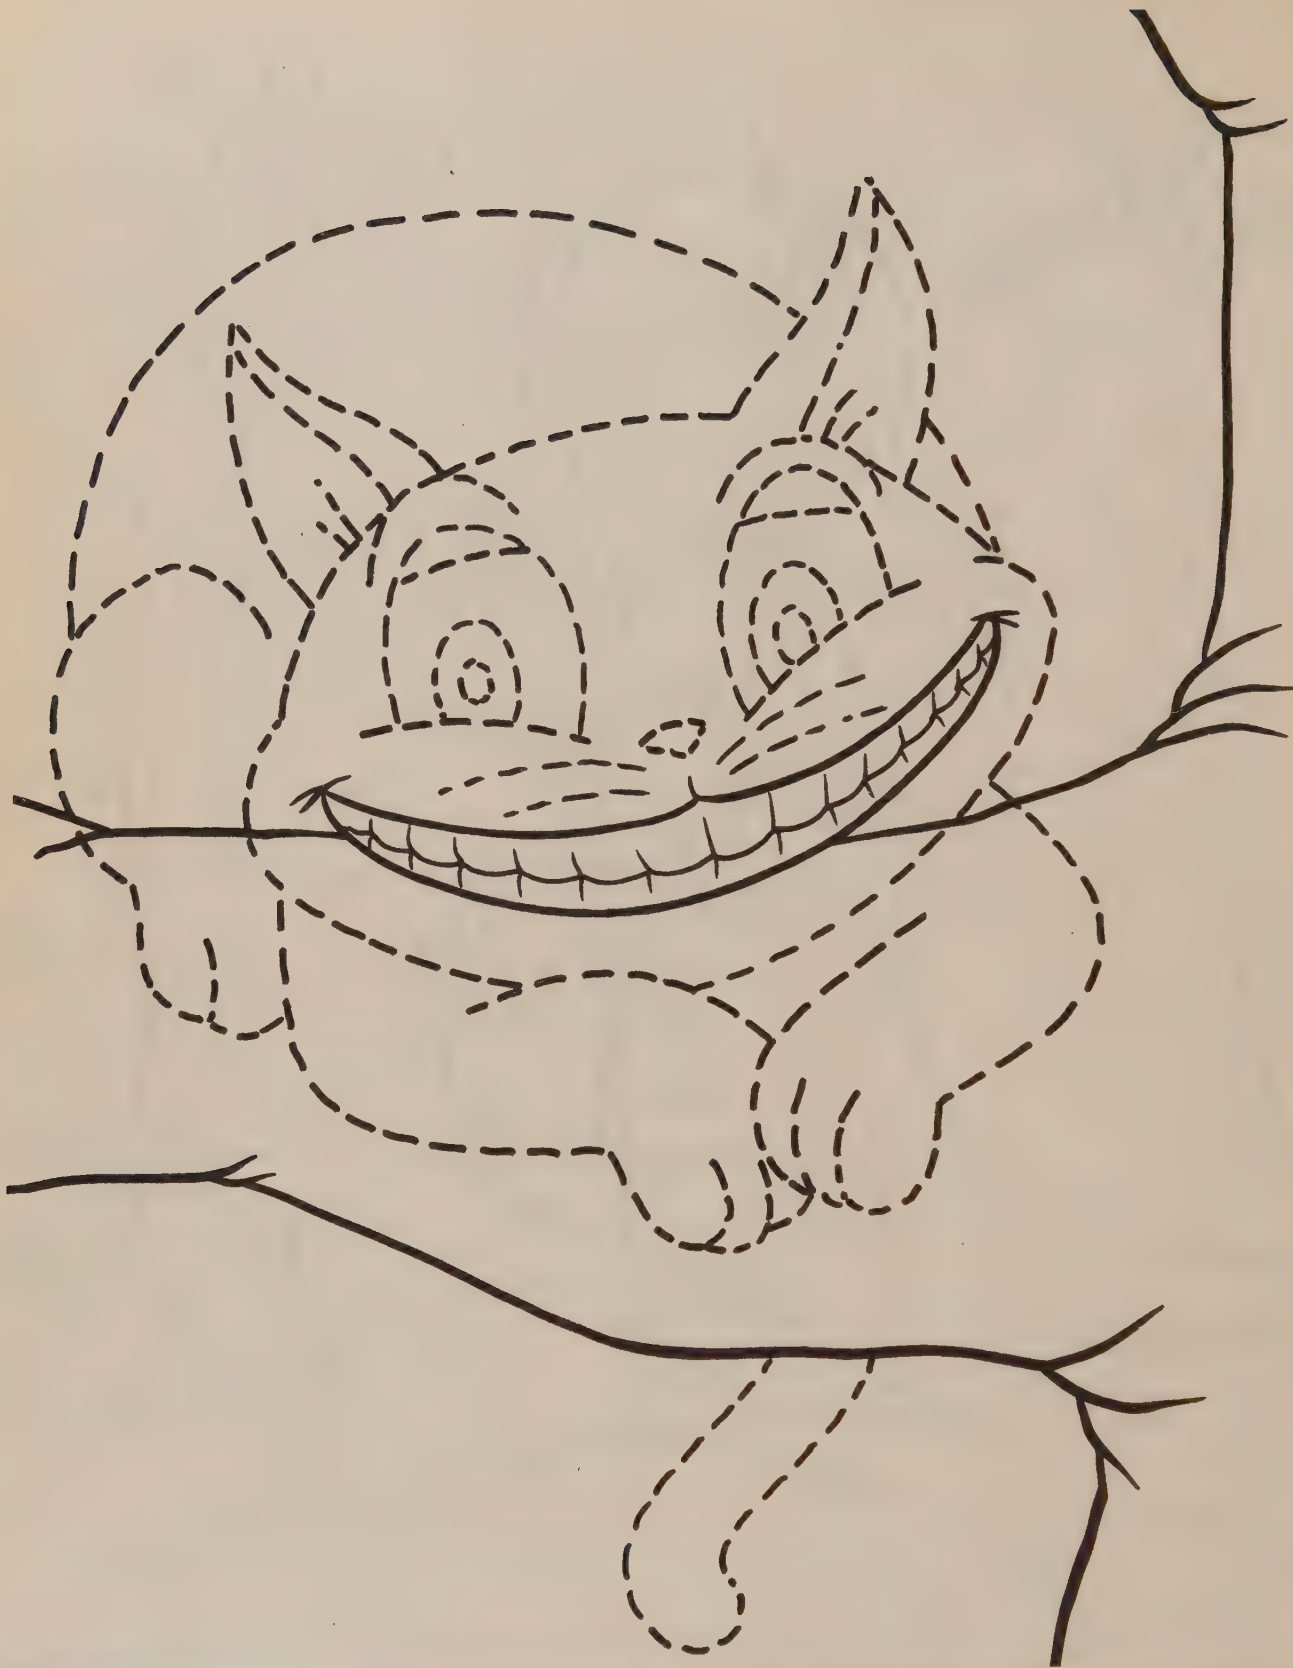

Alice took the Baby outside. It turned into a squealing pig!

The Cheshire Cat was sitting in a tree nearby.

"In one direction lives the Hatter. In the other direction lives the March Hare. You could visit either one," he said.

Then the Cat vanished slowly into thin air. Soon, only his grin remained.

Alice walked off toward the March Hare's house.
"This must be it," she said.

The house was very big, so Alice nibbled some mushroom and grew a bit larger.

Alice found a table set for tea.

"No room! No room!" said the March Hare and the Mad Hatter, together.

"There is plenty of room!" Alice replied.

The March Hare

The Mad Hatter

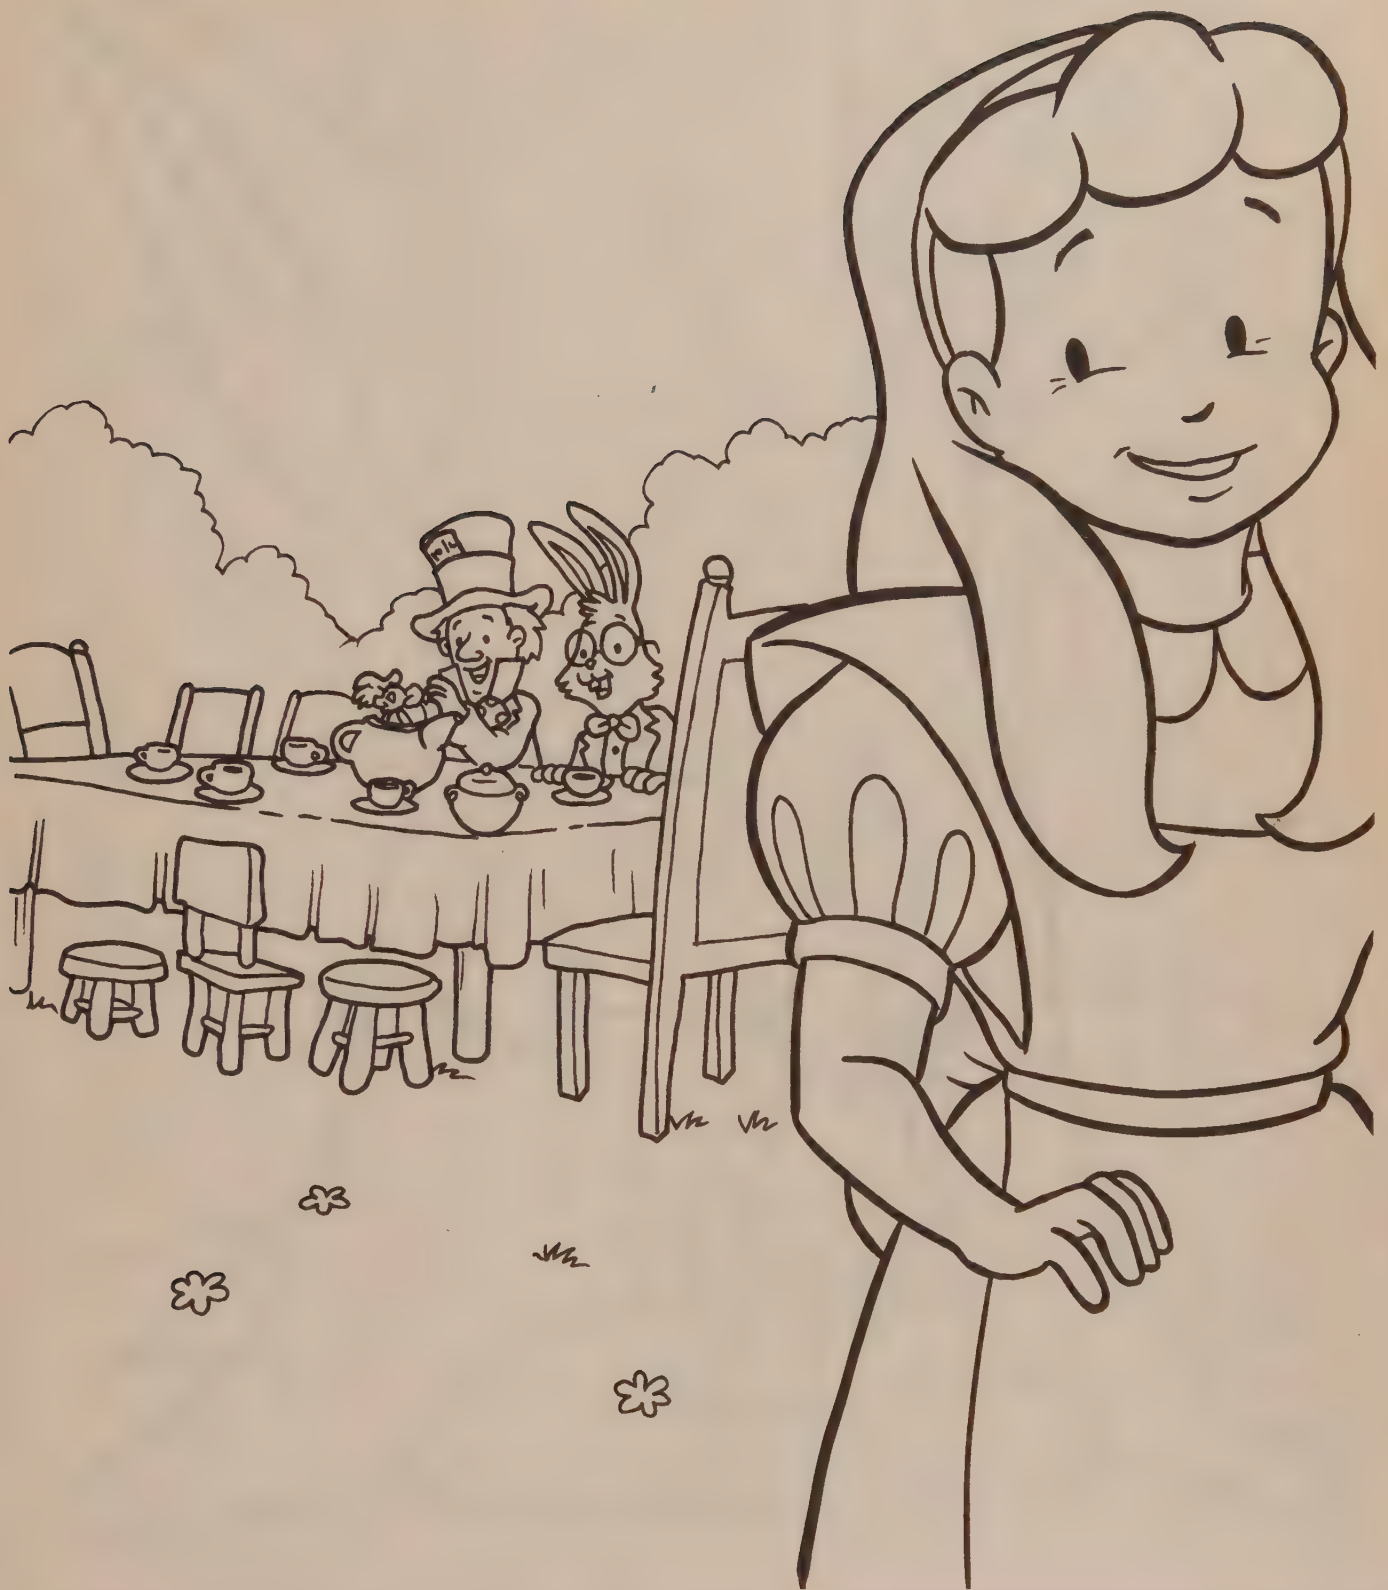

The Mad Tea Party

The Dormouse told them a story.

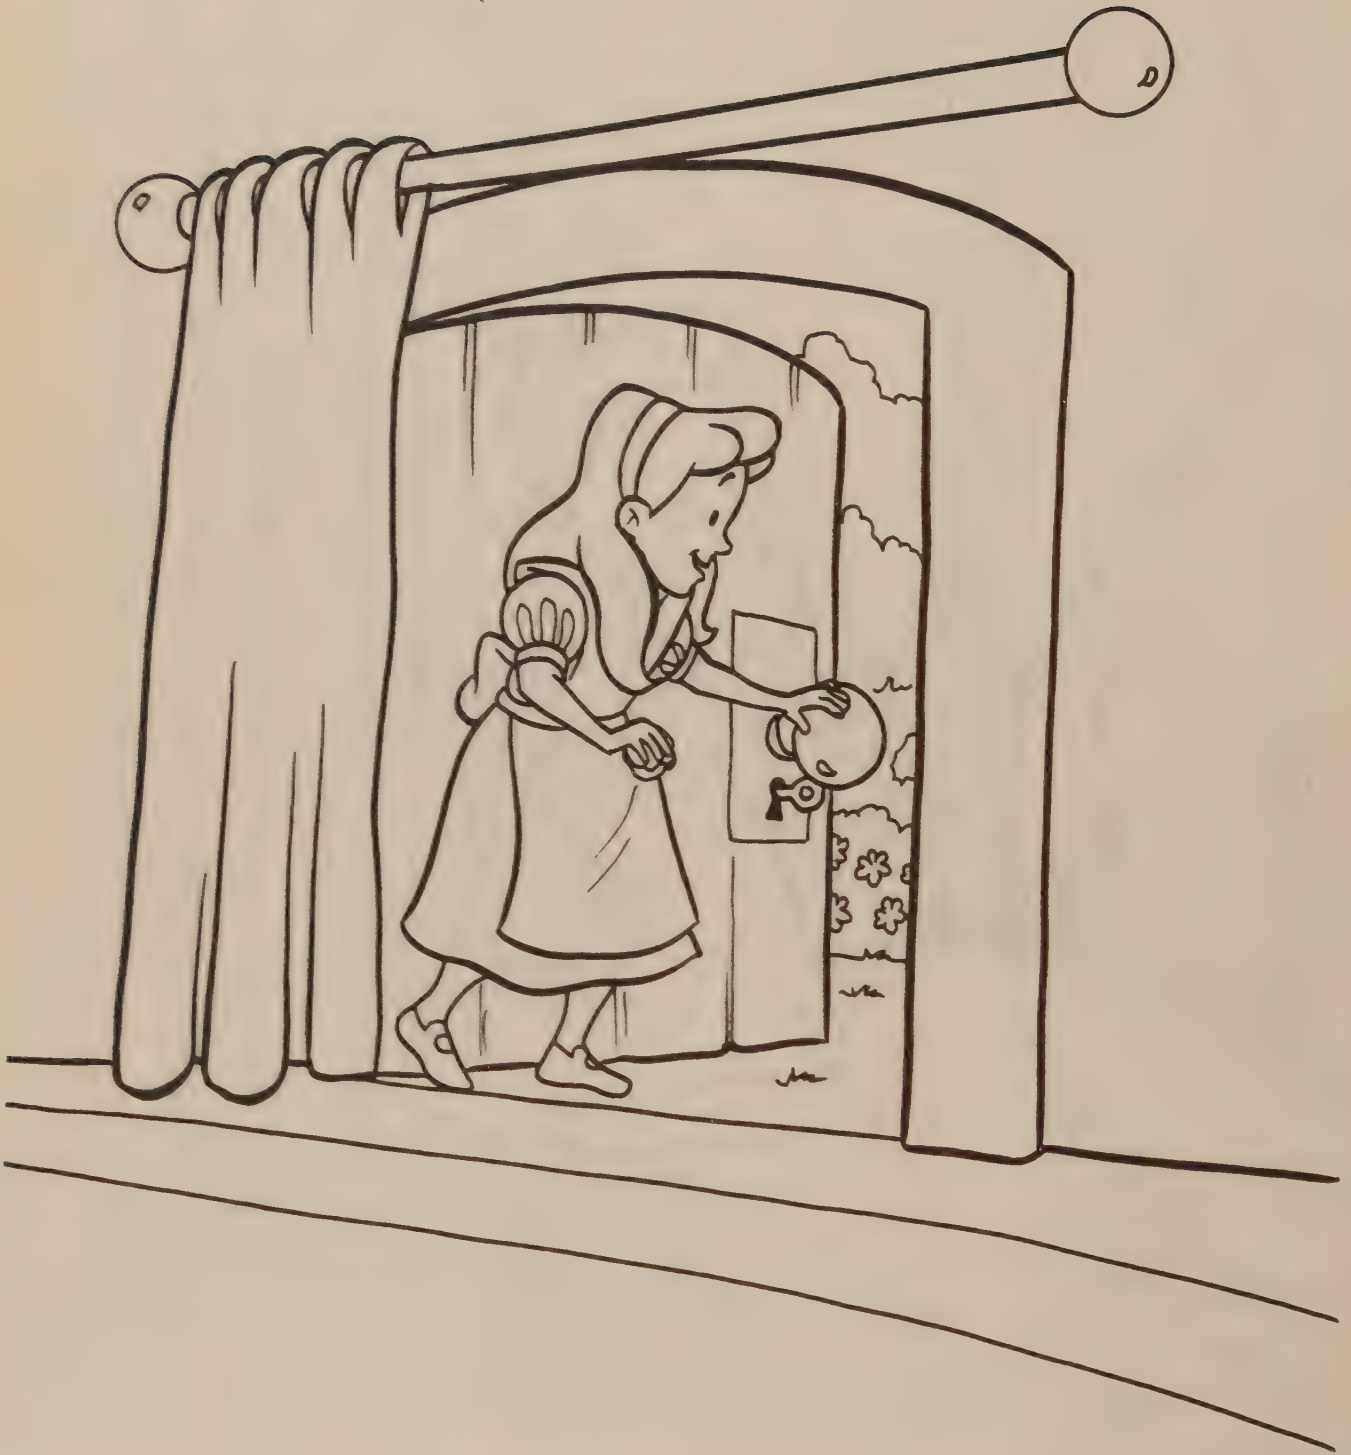

The tea party ended.

The Door in the Tree

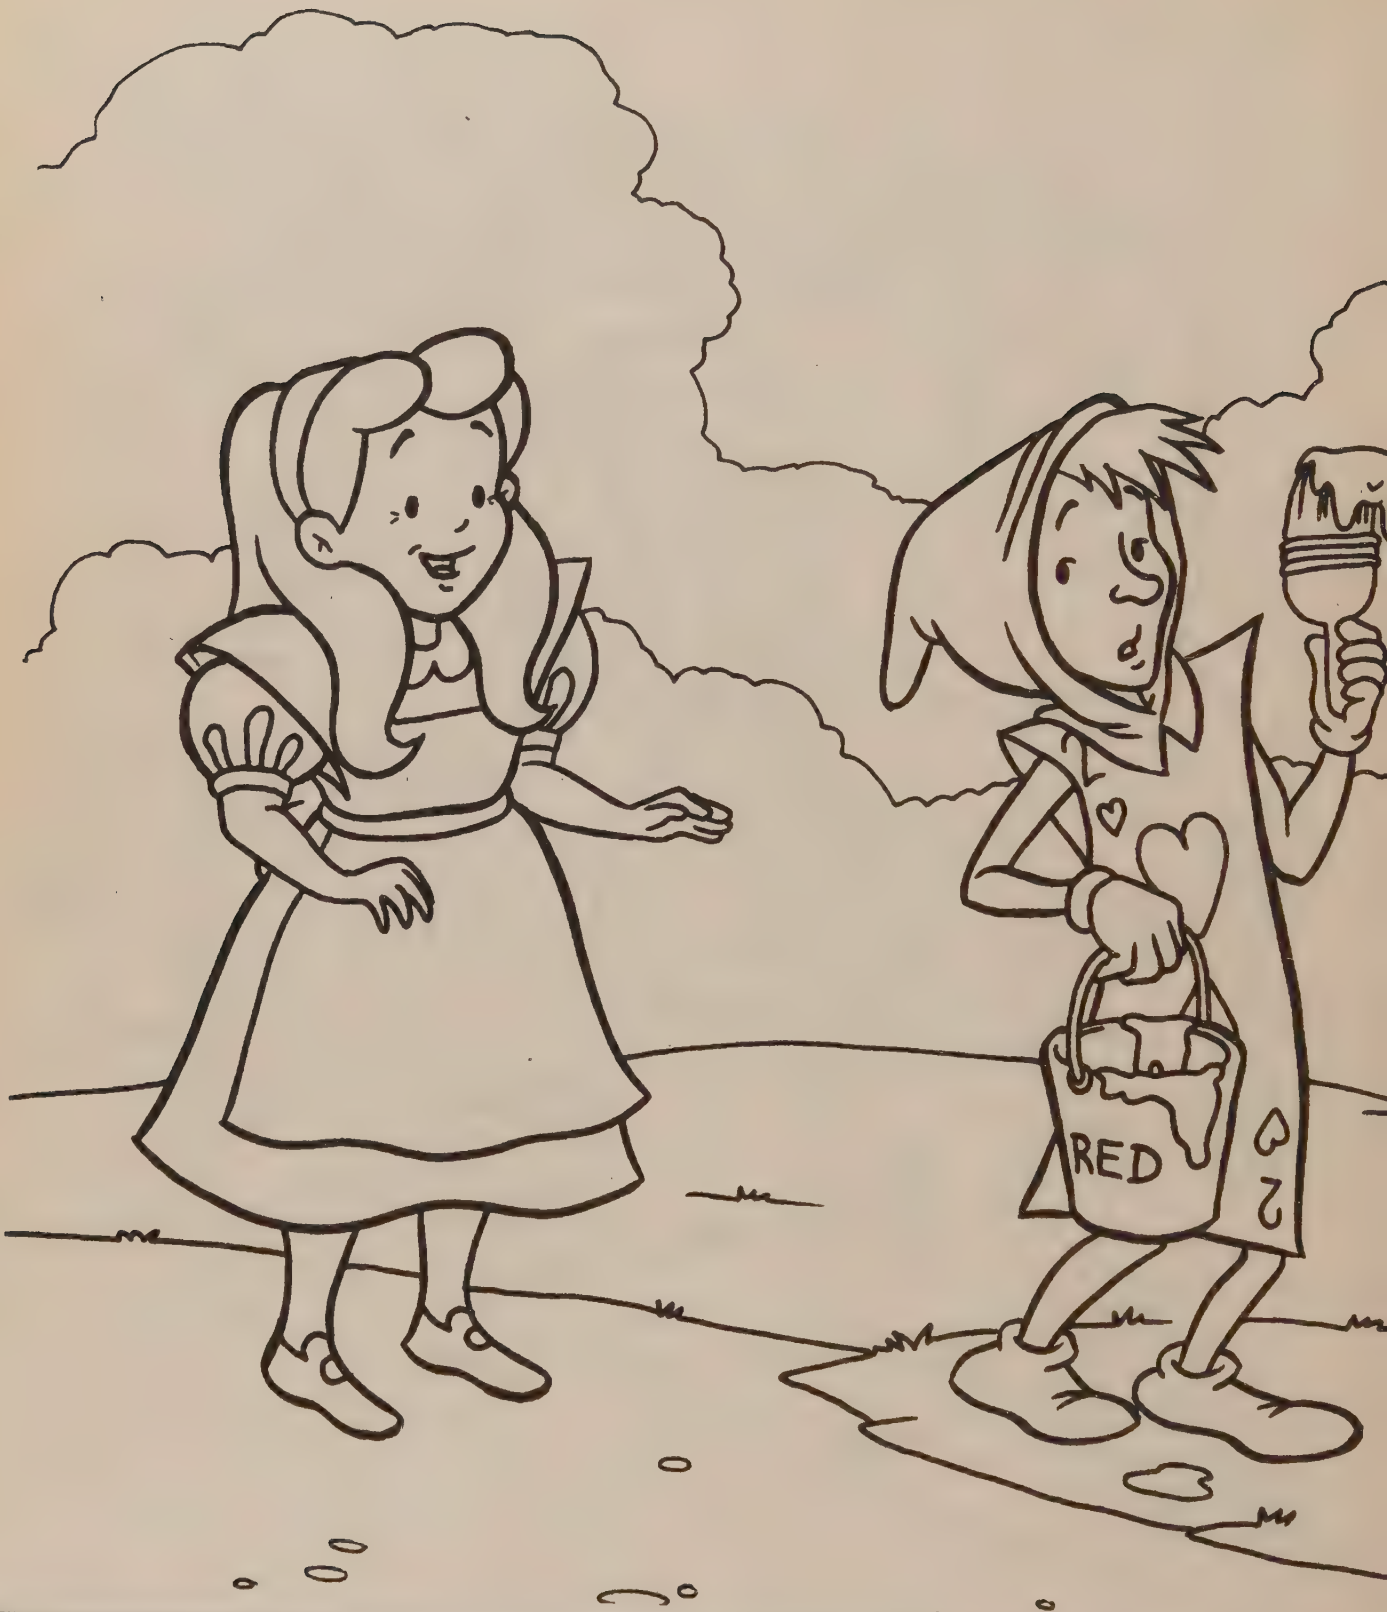

Alice went through the door in the tree and was back down the rabbit hole!

Alice ate some mushroom to grow smaller. Now she could fit through the garden door.

In the Garden

“Very strange, indeed,” Alice thought.

Three playing cards were painting white roses red!

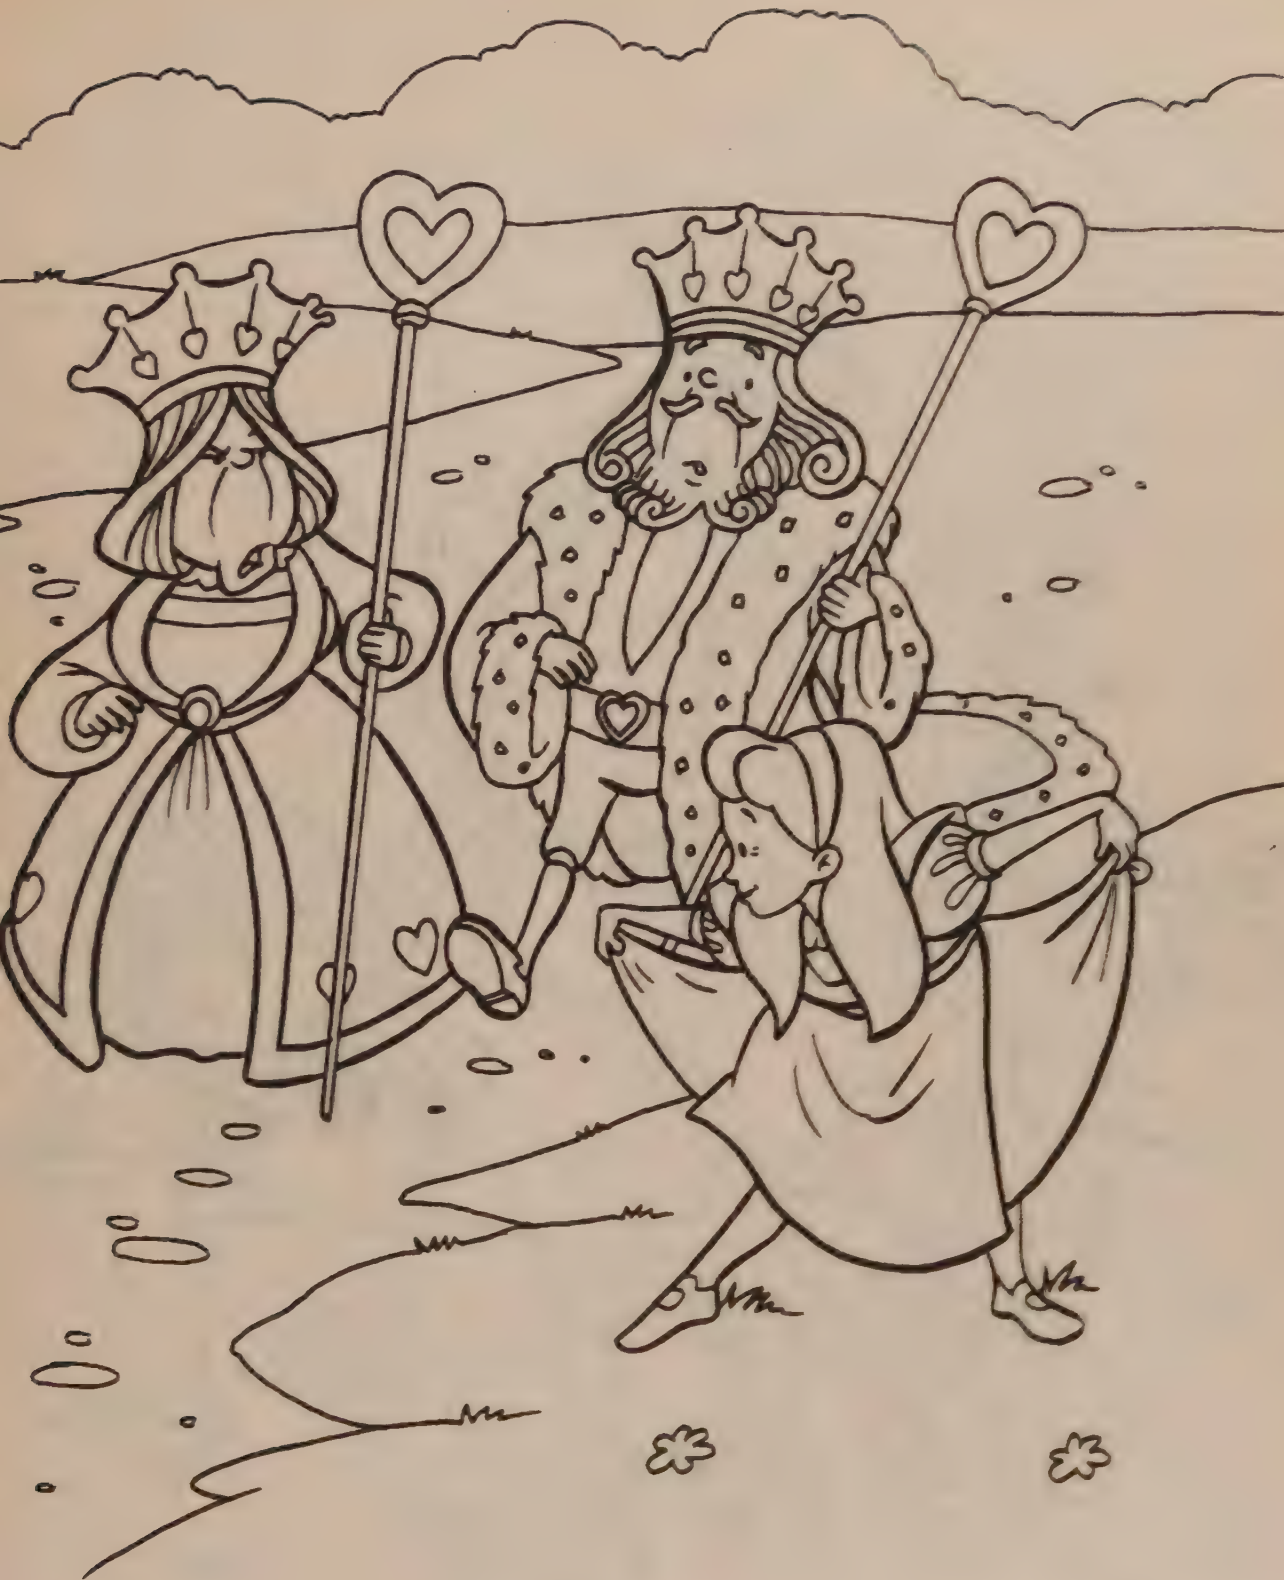

The gardeners explained that the white rose tree was planted by mistake.

Alice helped them paint the roses red.

A royal parade came by. Everyone looked like playing cards!

“Can you play croquet?” the Queen of Hearts asked Alice.

The players had flamingos for mallets and hedgehogs for balls.

The playing-card soldiers were the hoops!

Alice's flamingo kept looking at her, making it hard for Alice to play the game.

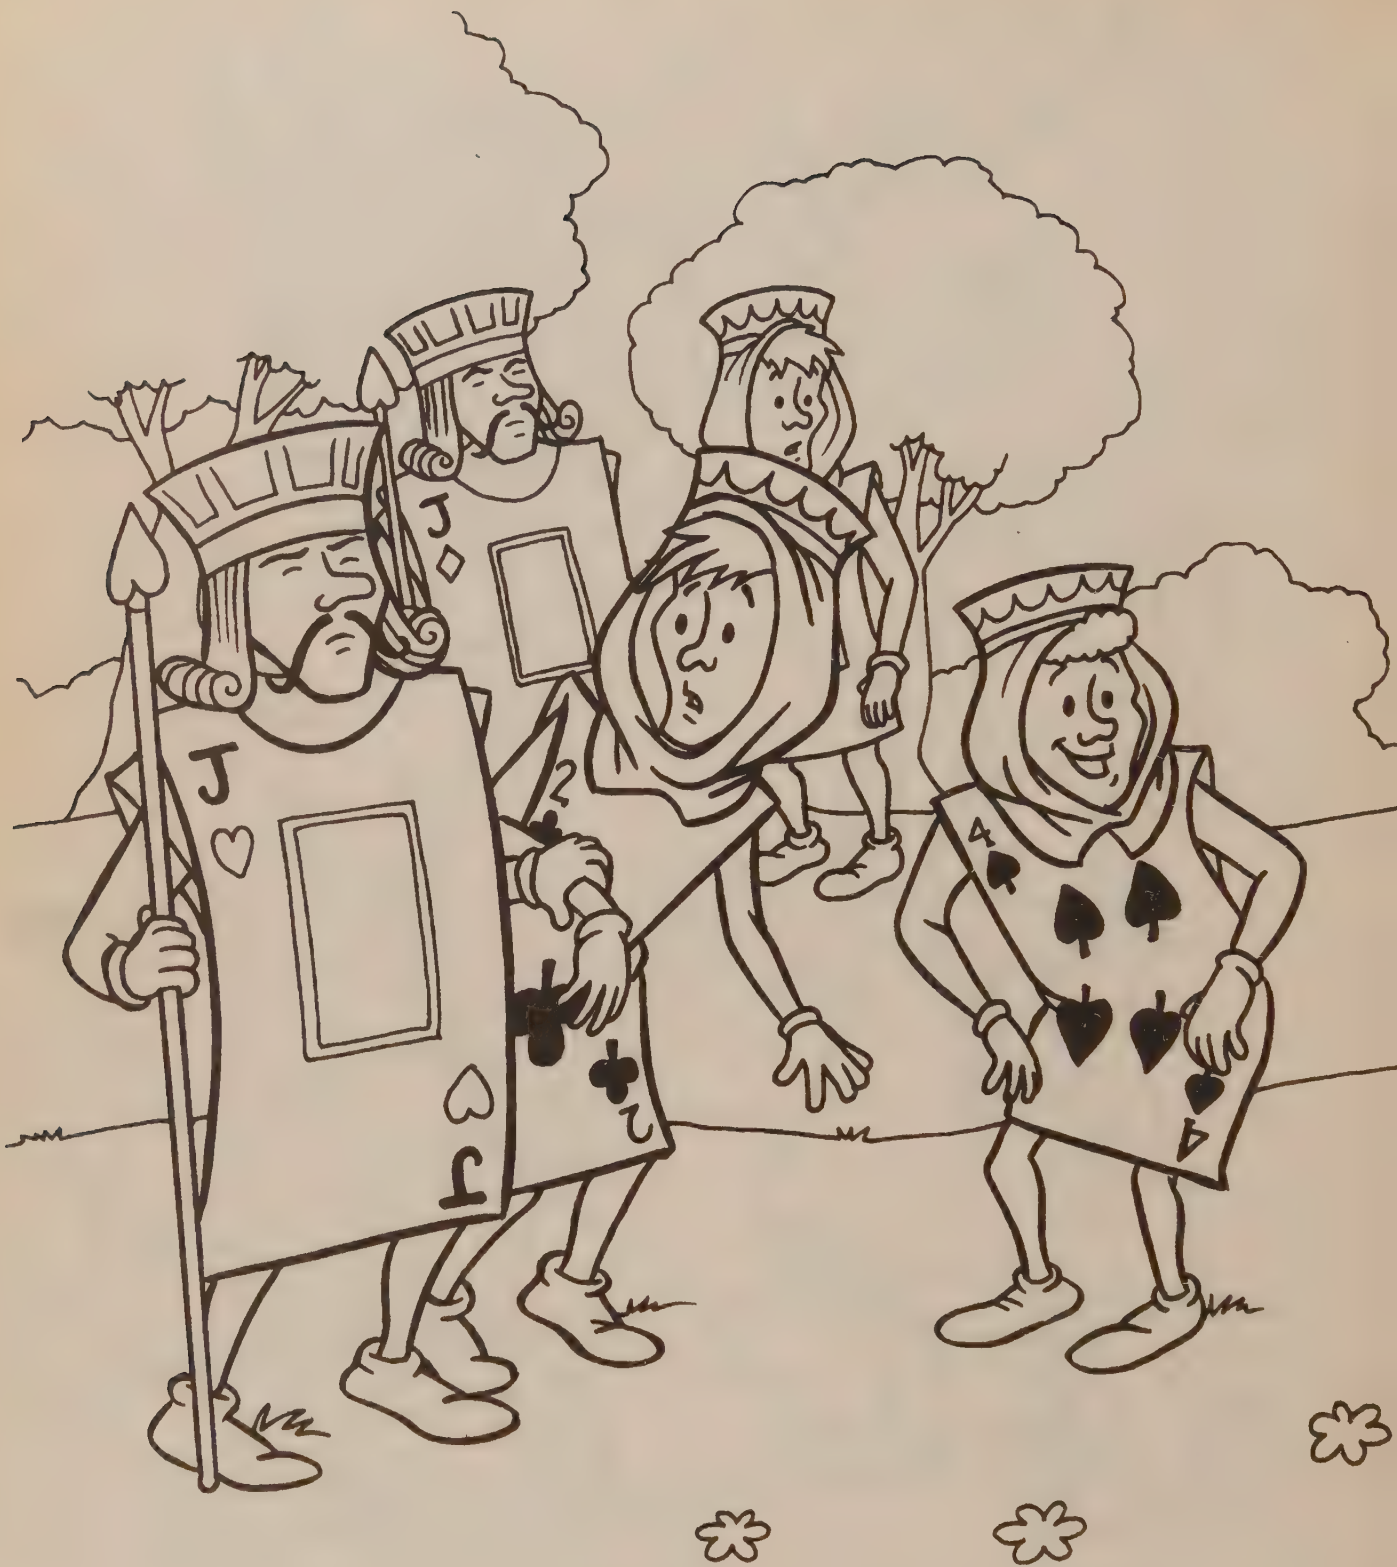

The Queen kept shouting, "Off with his head!"

The Cheshire Cat's smile appeared. "How are you getting on?"
the grin asked Alice.

When his entire head had appeared, Alice told the Cheshire Cat about the game.

All of the players, except for the Queen, the King, and Alice, were put in jail.

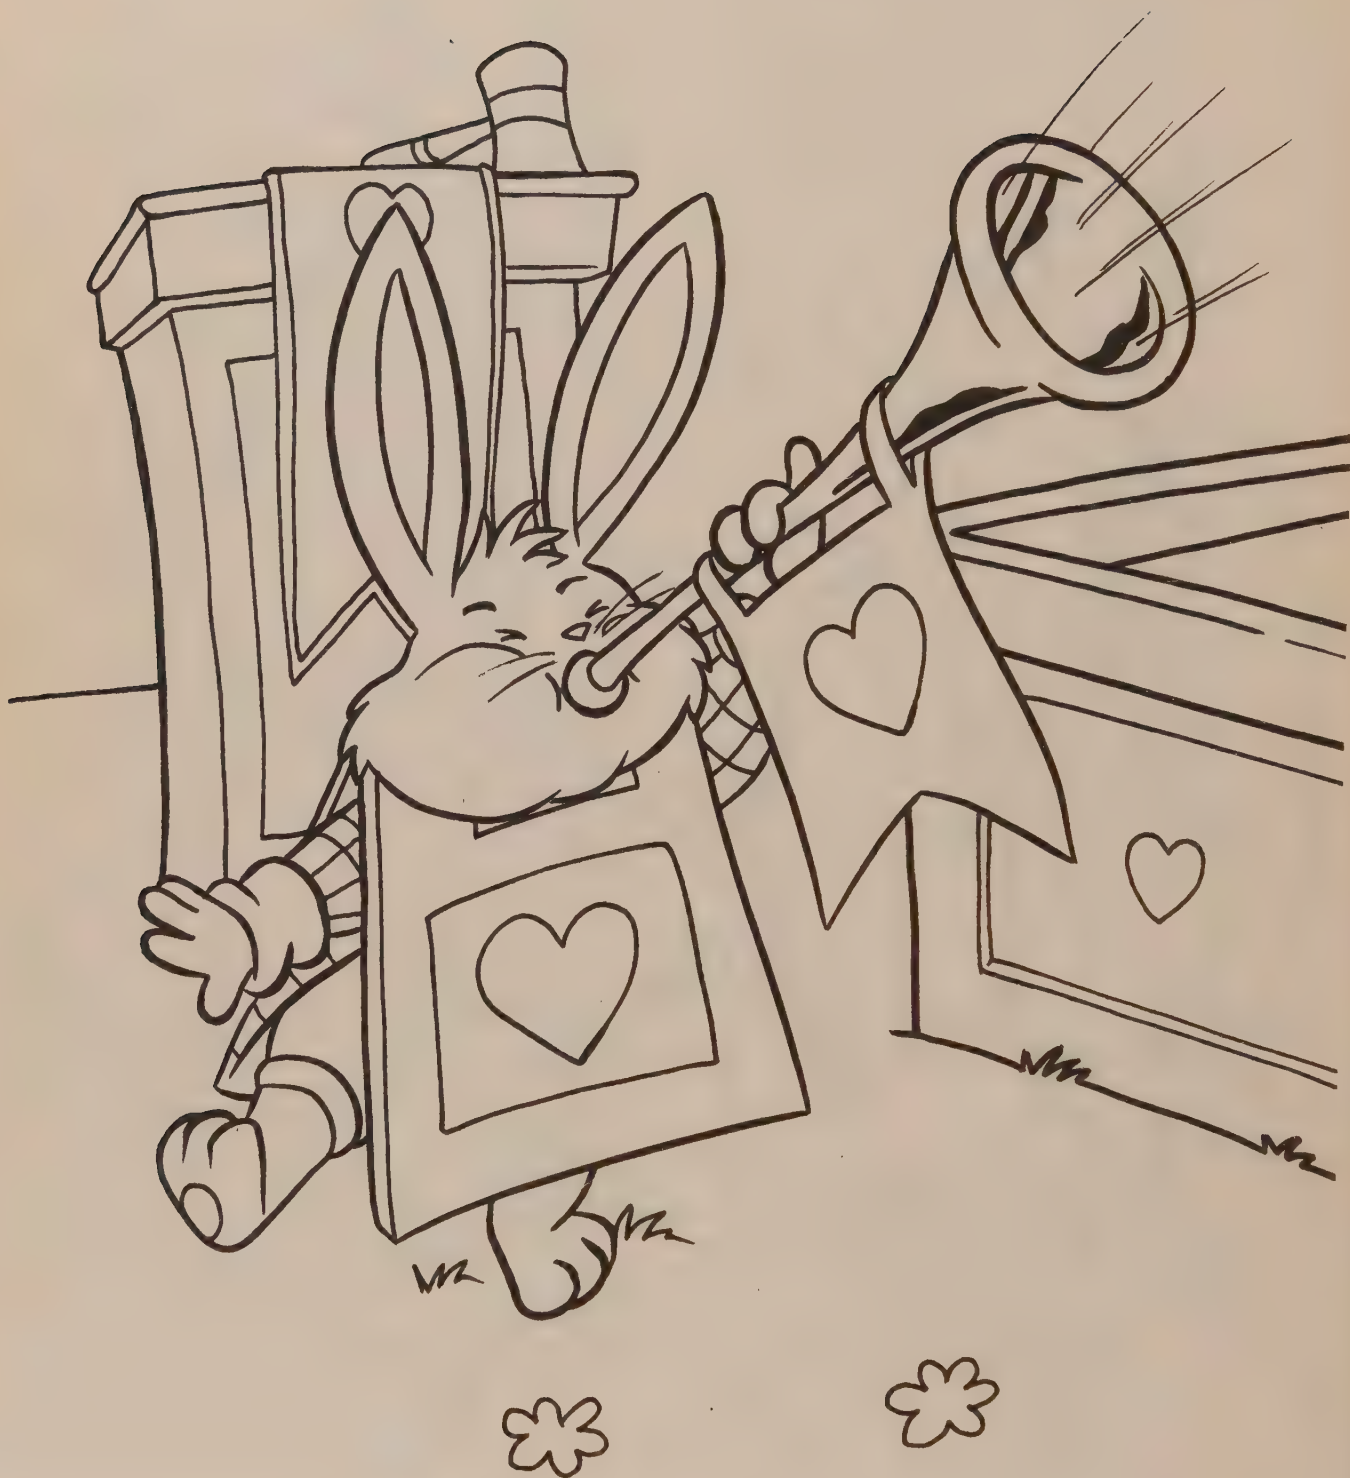

The Queen took Alice by the hand, and the King pardoned everyone.

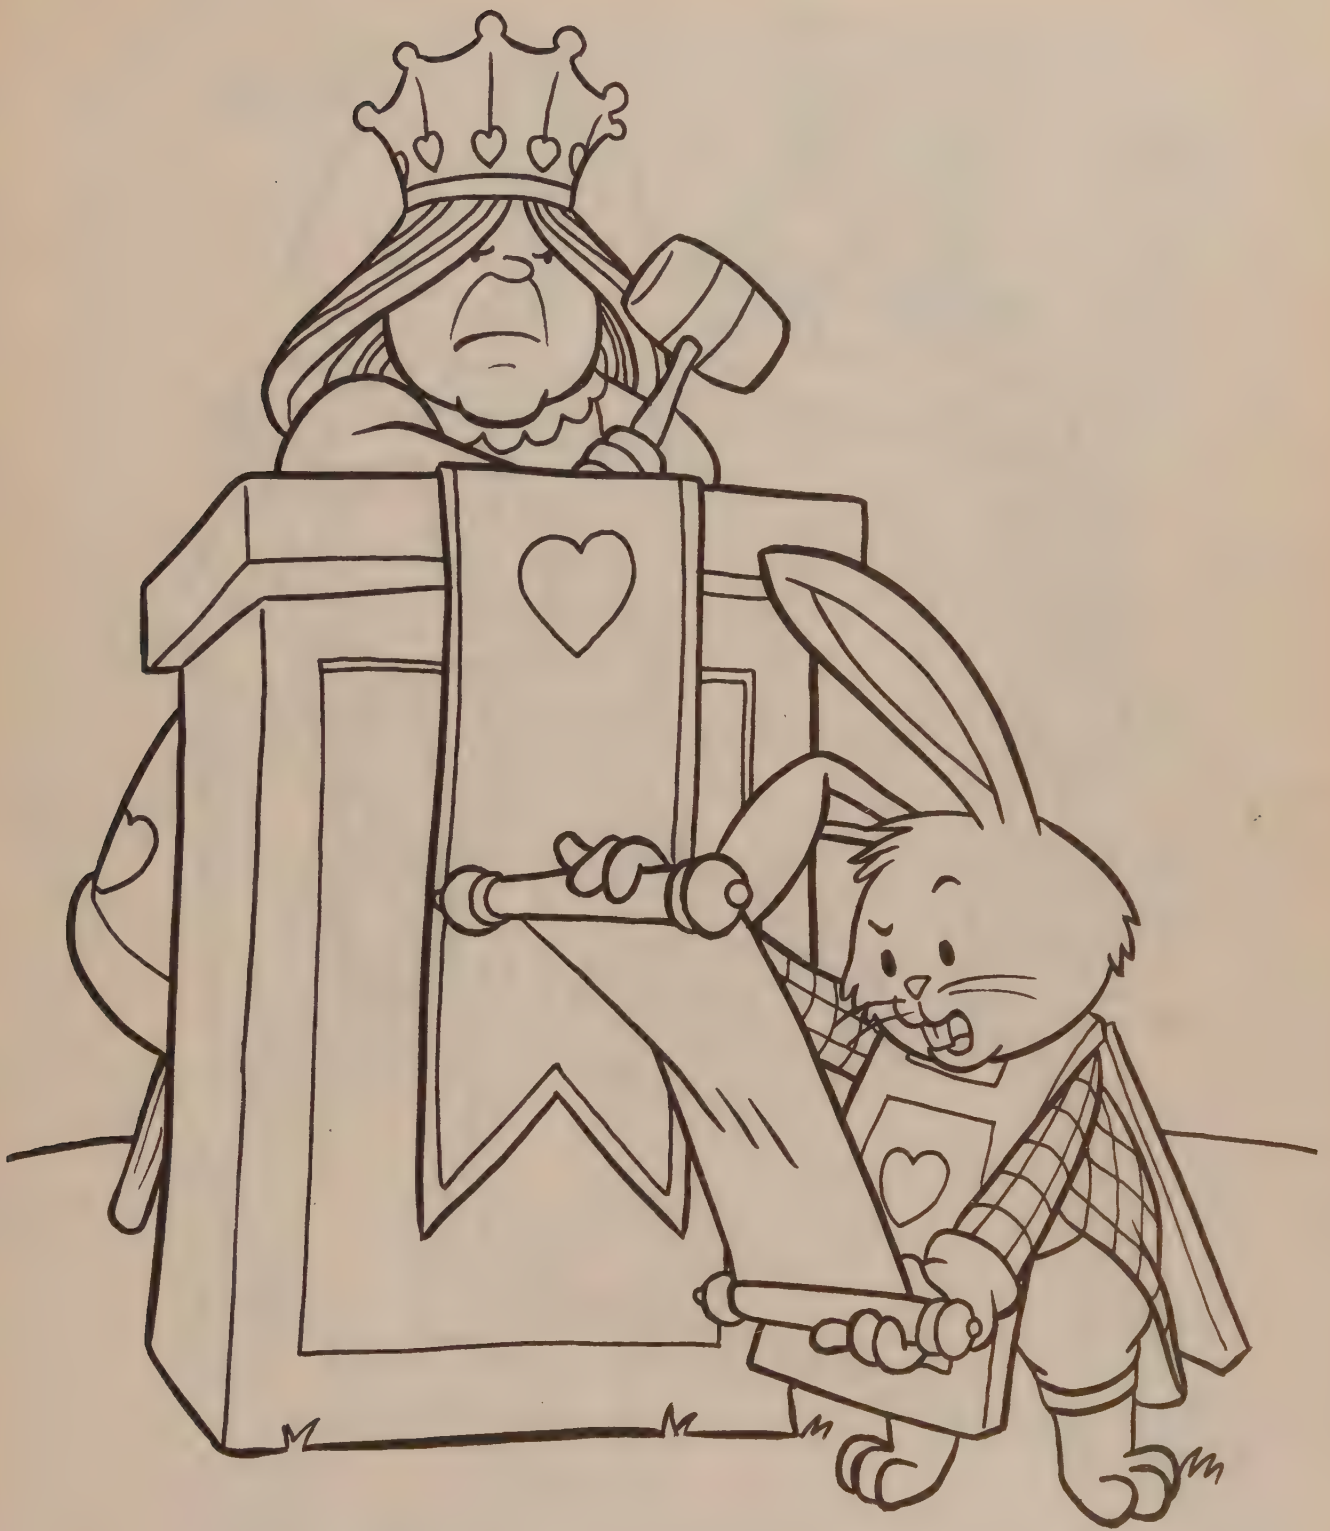

The Queen ordered a Gryphon to take Alice to the Mock Turtle.

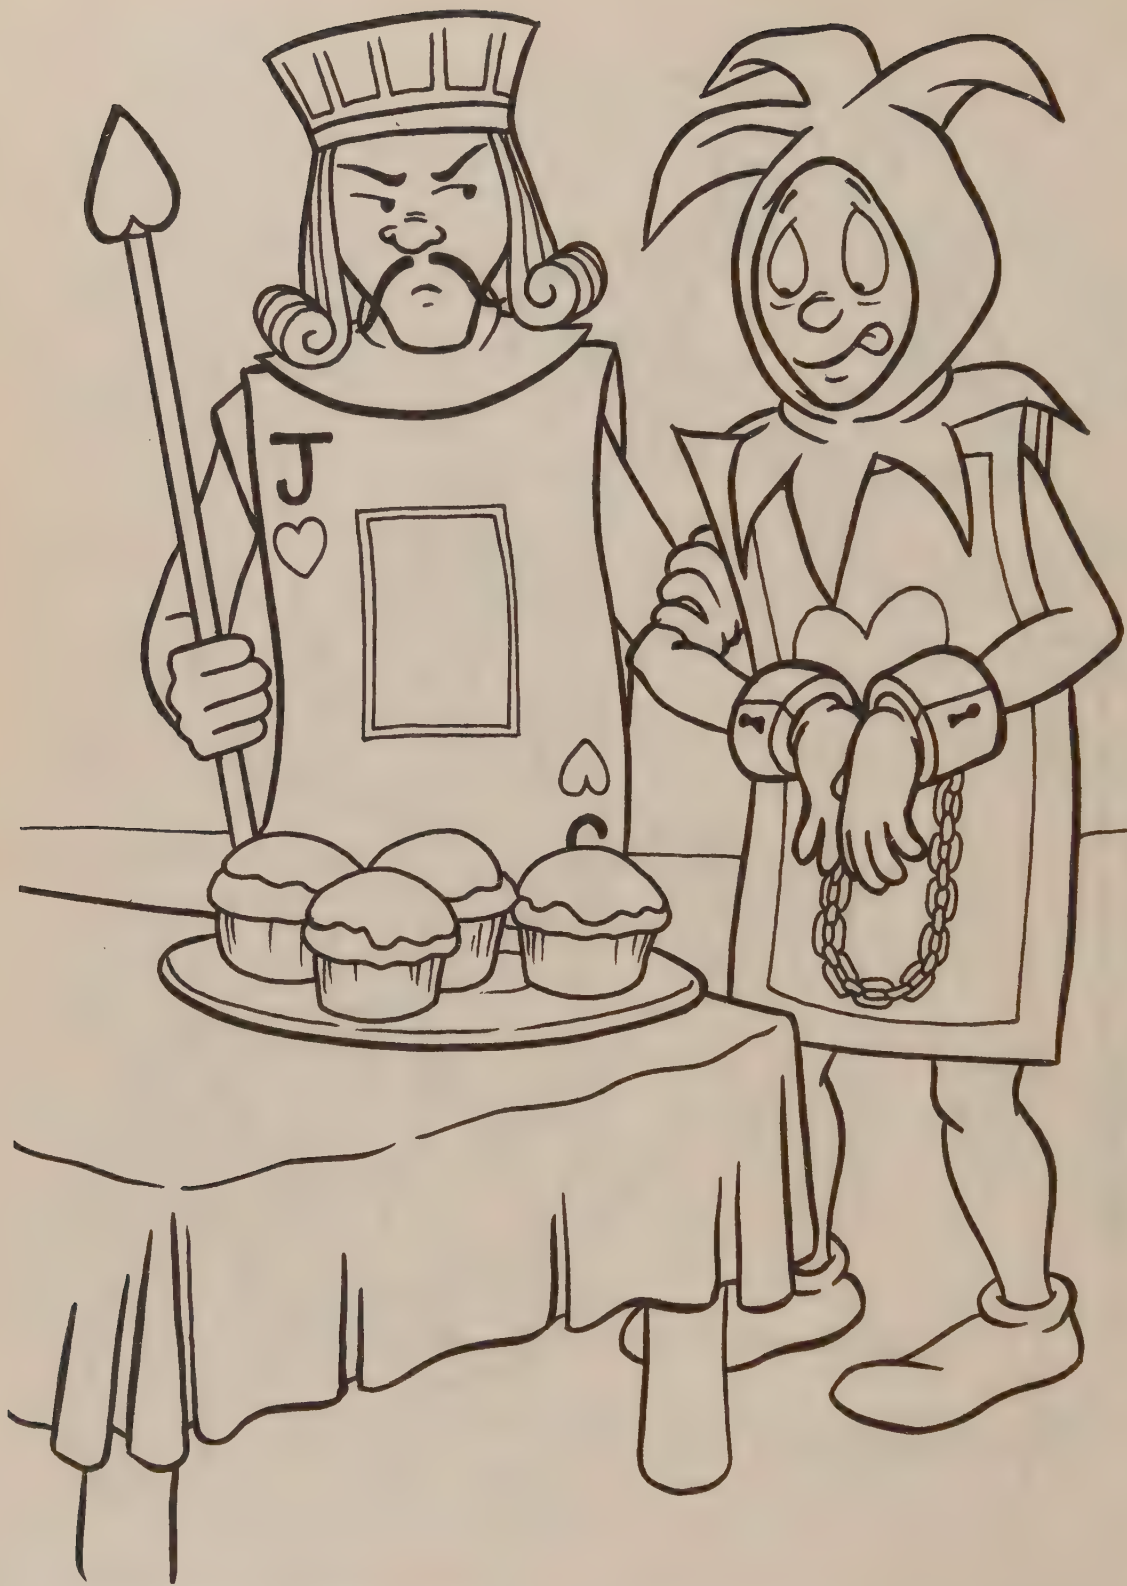

The Mock Turtle was very sad. He told them a story of life in the sea.

Then they heard a great blast on a trumpet. The trial was starting!

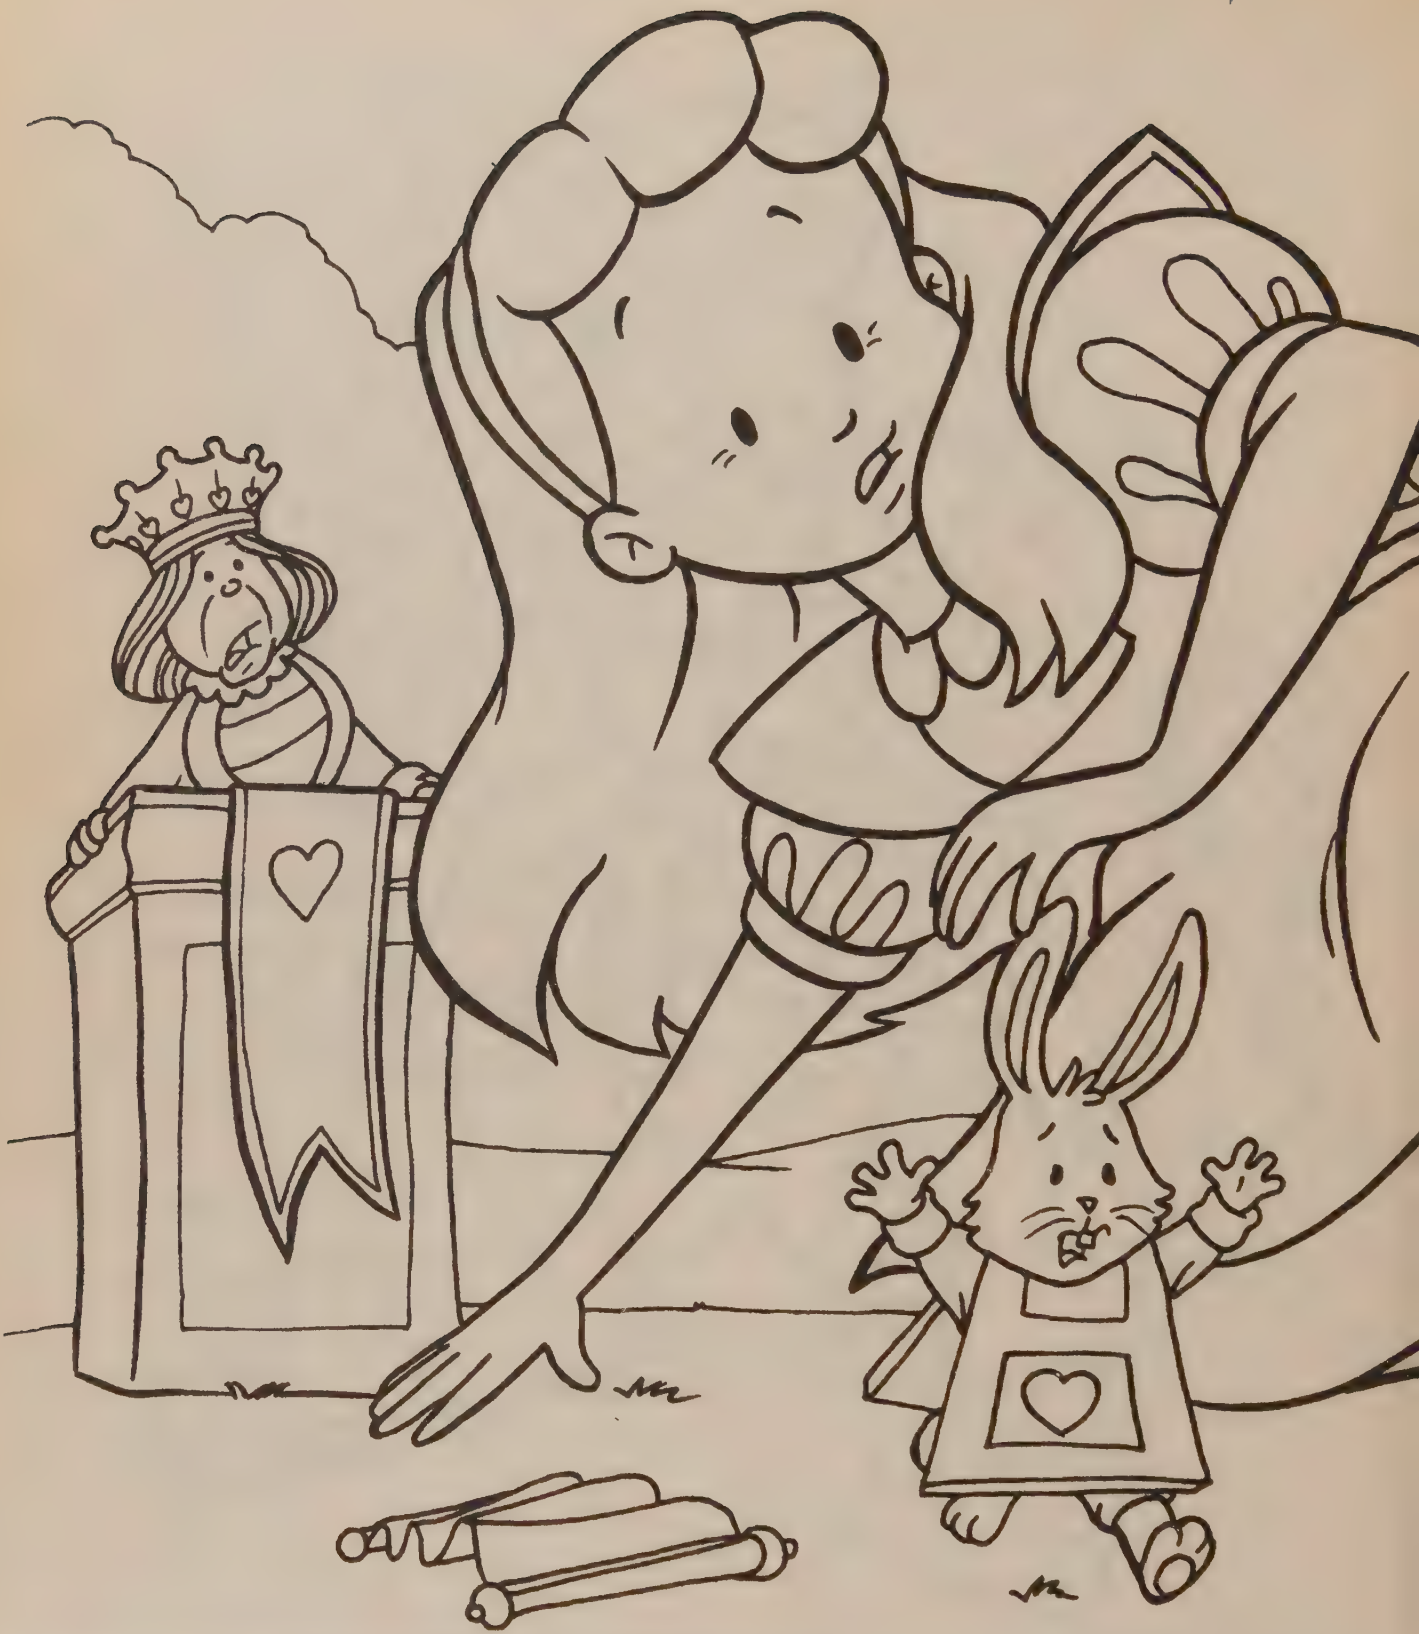

“The Queen of Hearts, she made some tarts, all on a summer day.”

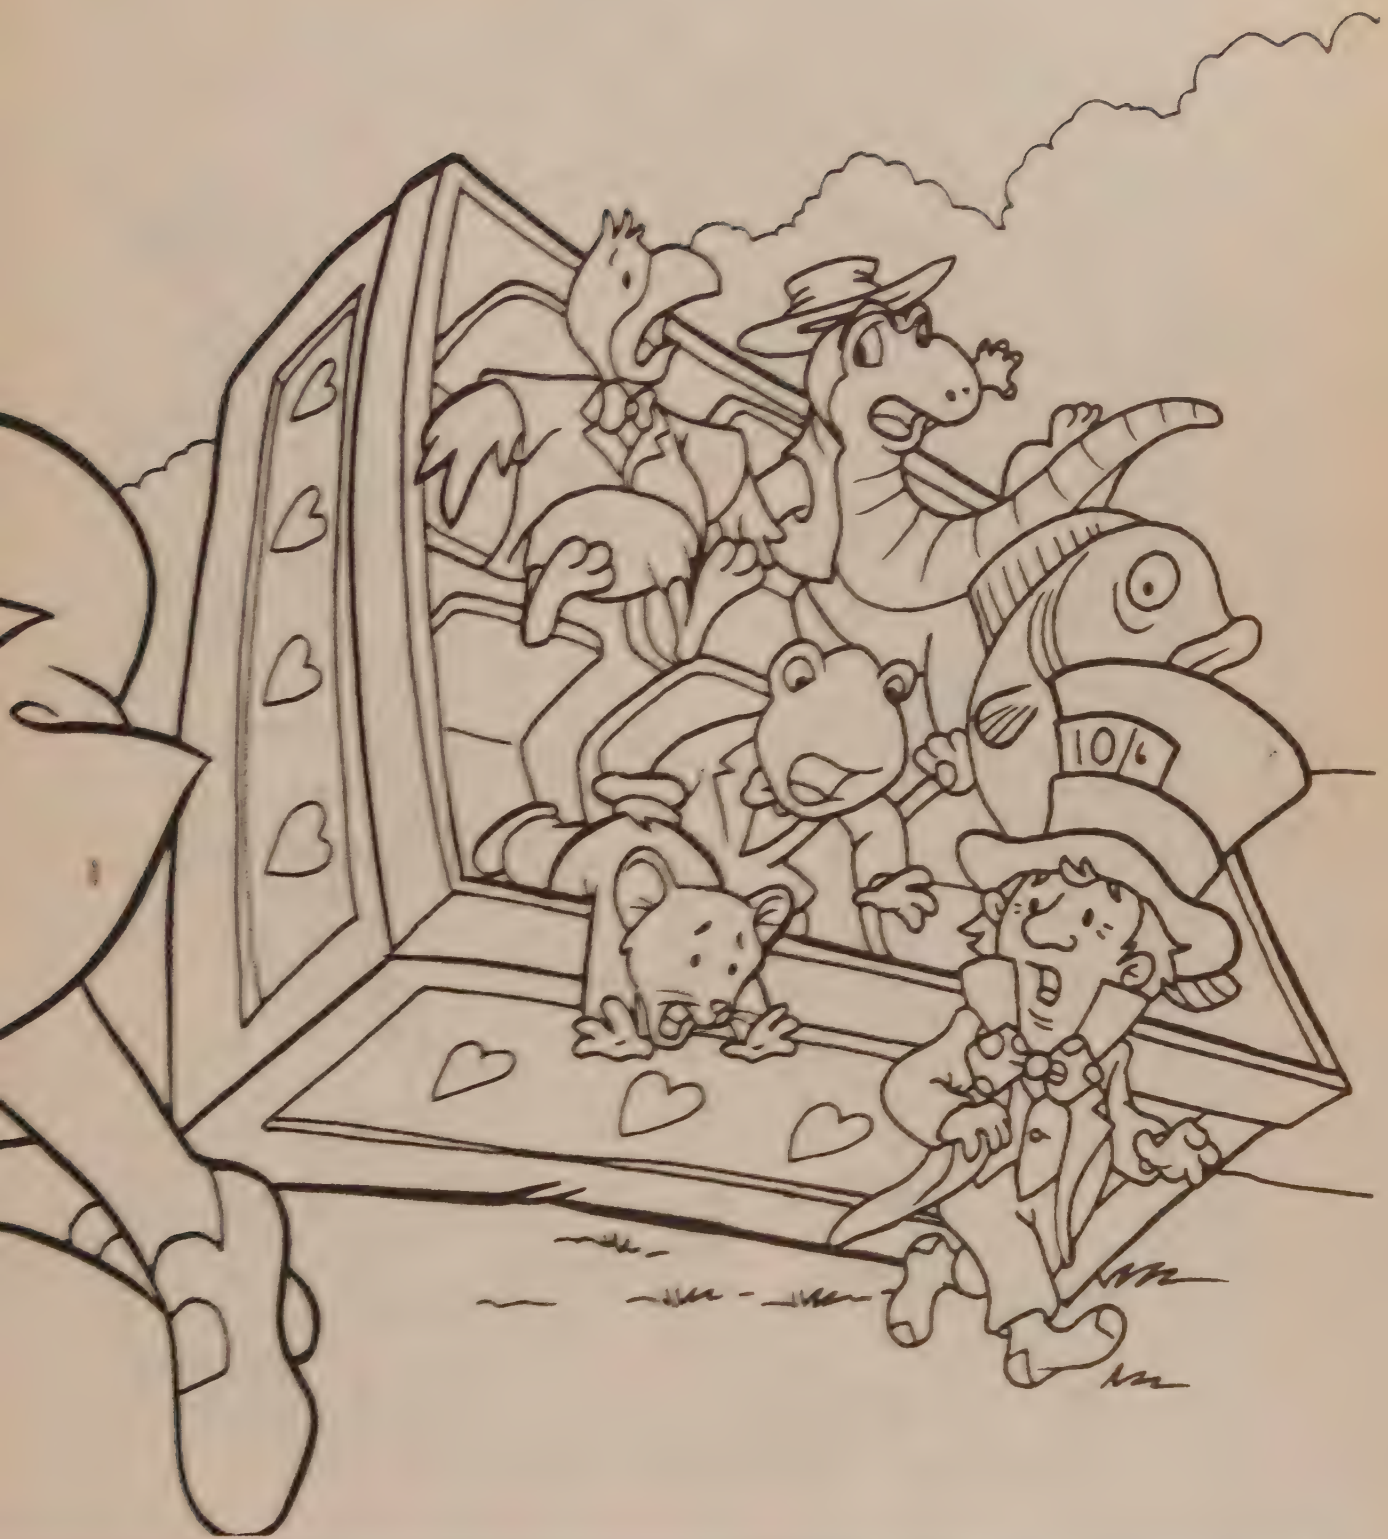

“The Knave of Hearts, he stole the tarts, and took them quite away!”

The Hatter was called as a witness. He was so scared that he shook out of his shoes!

During the trial, Alice began to grow again.

When she was called as a witness, she jumped out of the jury box and sent everyone flying!

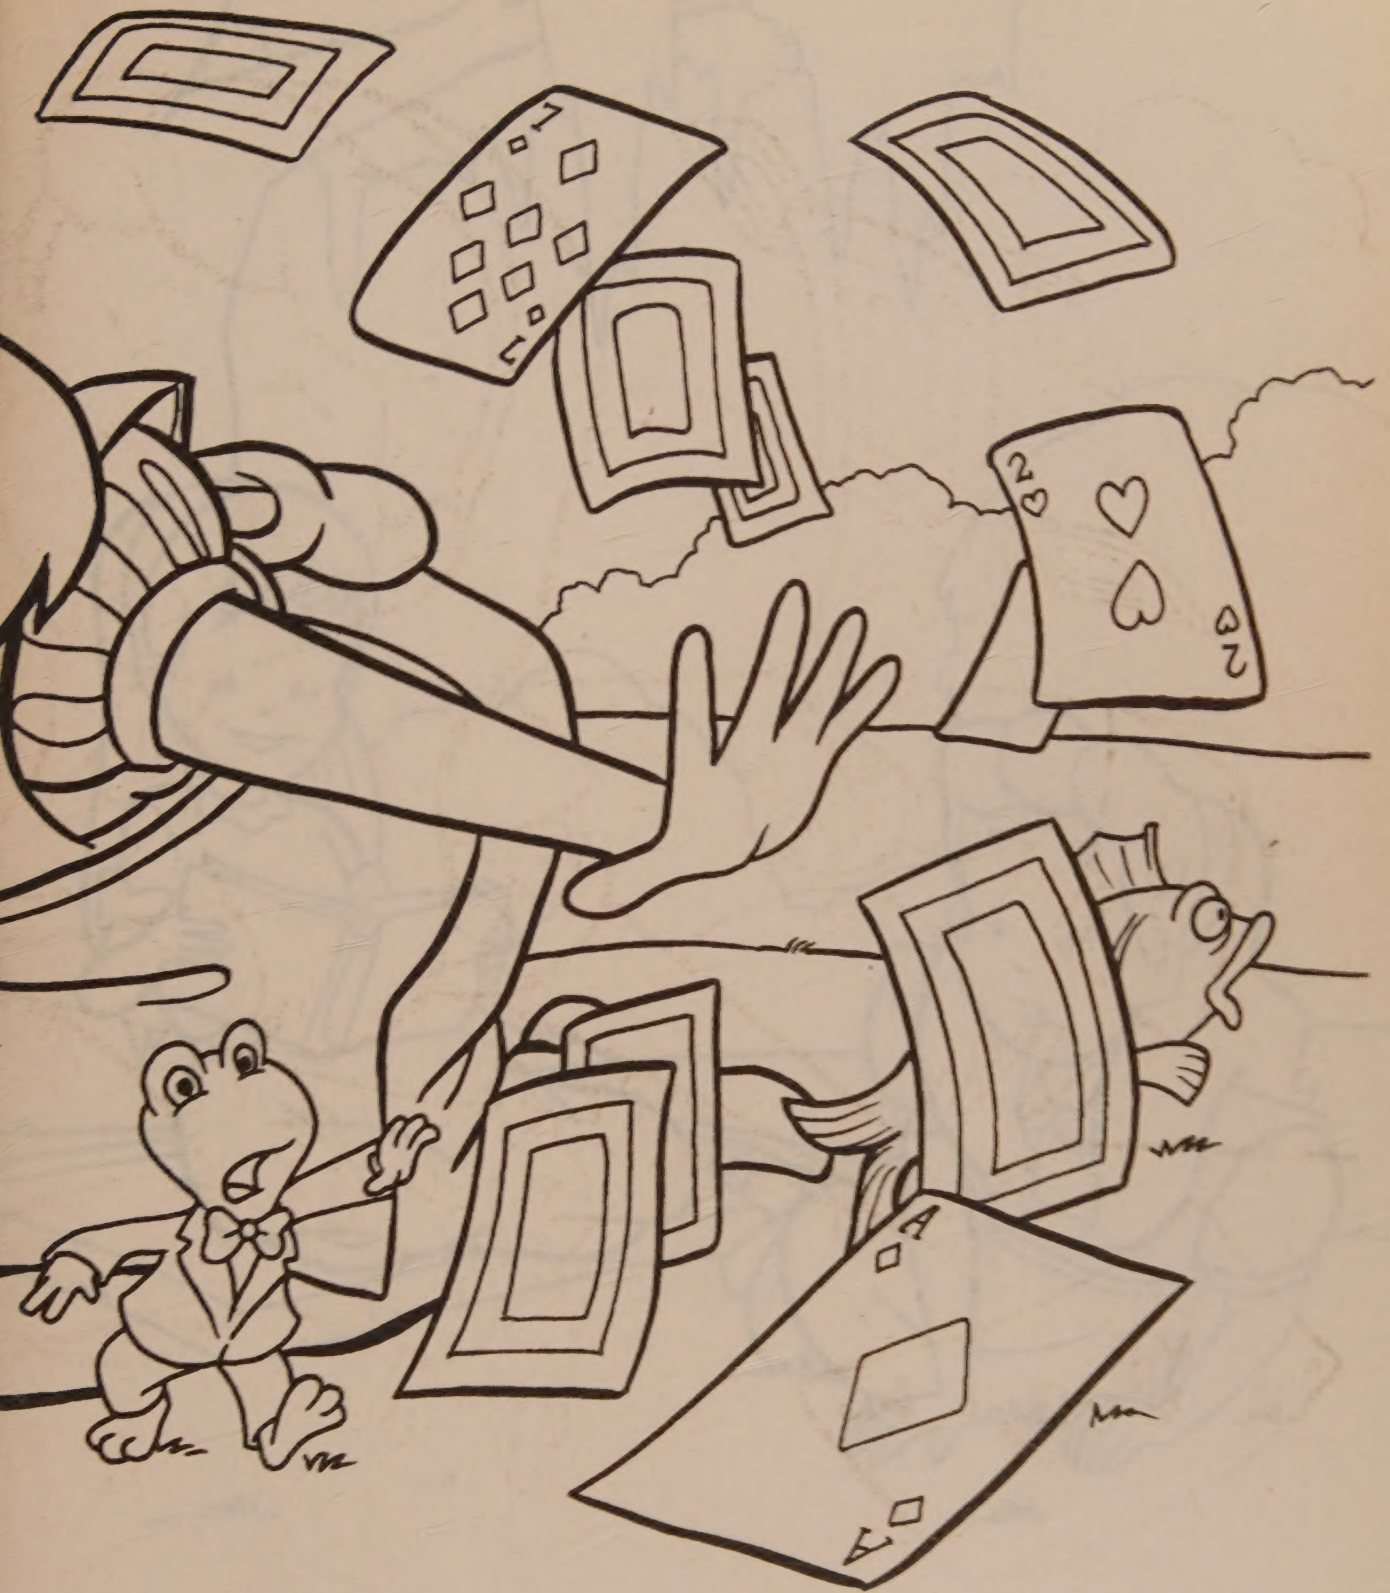

“Who stole the tarts?” the King asked.

Alice could not answer the King's questions, so the Queen shouted at her.

Alice had had enough. "You are nothing but a pack of cards!"
she said.

After that, the frog and fish were up to the third level.
"What a curious dream!" the frog said.

The next thing she knew, Alice woke up by the riverbank.
“What a curious dream!” she said.

Treasury of Illustrated Classics™

Come with Alice down the rabbit hole to a land of wonders! This Alice in Wonderland Giant Coloring Book retells the story and features Alice and all of the amazing characters she meets—the March Hare, the Mad Hatter, the Red Queen and many others—in exciting scenes to color.

Look for all of the Treasury of Illustrated Classics™
Giant Coloring Books:

- The Adventures of Pinocchio
- The Adventures of Robin Hood
 - Alice in Wonderland
 - Beauty and the Beast
 - Black Beauty
- Journey to the Center of the Earth
 - The Jungle Book
 - Little Women
 - Peter Pan
 - Treasure Island
- The Wind in the Willows
- The Wizard of Oz

Modern Publishing
A Division of Unisystems, Inc.
New York, New York 10022
Printed in the U.S.A.
Come visit our website at modernpublishing.com

ISBN 0-7666-1326-7

0 30099 49332 2